The Berretta Conferred on Cardinal McCloskey.

An Imposing Ceremony.

The Brooklyn Scandal Case.

NEW YORK, April 27, 1875.

Conferring the Berretta.

Thousands of spectators gathered at St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning to witness the ceremony of conferring the berretta on Cardinal McCloskey. There had been an enormous demand for tickets, and numbers of those who had them found great difficulty in gaining an entrance through the crowd. The streets in the immediate neighborhood were packed with human beings, all anxious to even get a chance of seeing the portals of the church. The interest manifested was so great that representatives from every part of the Union were present. A number of front seats were reserved for invited guests, and among those seated in them were Chief Justice Daly, Judge Donohue, District Attorney Phelps, Sinclair Tousey, Collector Arthur, Hon. Thos. Murphy and many other well-known citizens.

At twenty minutes to eleven o'clock the head of the procession emerged from the vestry, acolythes leading and bearing the procession cross and tall tapers. Then followed long lines of clergymen, who, after making genu-flexions before the high altar, passed down the centre aisle, which was soon packed. When the surpliced priests had all taken their places, the representatives of the different religious orders in the dioceses began to emerge from the vestry in their picturesque habits. When the procession had all been arranged in proper places, there was an interval of ten minutes, during which the church was filled with joyous music from the choir. A procession of prelates at length emerged from the vestry with slow and measured tread, and the audience rose as the magnificent spectacle began to unfold itself. The scene was one which New York will probably never again witness. Boys with picturesque robes and swirging censors, and dignitaries in dark purple, preceded the Archbishop and Bishops. The procession was closed by the celebrants of the mass, Bishop Loughlin, of Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. McGlynn, assistant; Rev. Father McGean, Deacon, and Father Kean, Sub-Deacon; then Cardinal McCloskey, the Papal envoys, Dr. Udalid, Monsignor Roncetti, and lastly the tall figure of Count Murefoschi, of the Pope's Noble Guard, in his dazzling uniform.

Cardinal McCloskey, wearing his rottchet, purple cassock and mantelletta, knelt at the epistle side of the altar. The Archbishop of Baltimore sat on his throne at the same side. The officiating Bishop and clergymen stood at the altar steps, and mass was commenced at the confideor. The Cardinal stood up and proceeded to his throne at the gospel side, he alone of all the prelates present having a pastoral staff, which was carried by an assistant. The officiating Bishop, after incensing the altar three times, sat down with the Deacon and the sub-Deacon. Bishop Loughlin read the "Intriot," recited Kyrie Elyson and Gloria in Excelsis, which was afterwards sung by the choir, and the Collects were read by the celebrant. The epistle was read by the sub-Deacon, and while Bishop Loughlin read the "Gospel," the entire congregation rose to their feet. He then chanted the words "Credo in Unum Deum," and in a low voice recited the remainder of the Nicene Creed. When it was concluded the celebrant, together with the assistant deacon and sub-deacon, sat down until the choir had finished. Bishop Loughlin returned to the altar, where, after the customary Dominus Vobiscum and Oremus, he proceeded to read prayers at the offertory.

The Deacon and sub-Deacon then prepared the sacred vessels and the bread and wine. Mercandant's "Quam Dilesta" was sung during this period. The acolythes again advanced with the censors and the altar was incensed by the celebrant, the Archbishop and Bishops rising and removing the mitres, the priests and the entire congregation also rising. At this time the Church was a level sea of heads from right to left, from the sanctuary to the doors. The right, left and centre aisles of the Church were packed as full as they could hold with people, who were glad to get standing room. When the bell tinkled for the opening of the Canon or solemn part of the ceremony, the people standing made an attempt to kneel, but were unable to do so, they were massed so tightly together, and the very unusual spectacle was witnessed of hundreds standing up during the consecration.

Towards the end of the mass was introduced the curious ceremony of "Giving Pax," or "Kiss of Peace." It is not exactly a kiss, but an inclination of the heads together while the hands rest on the others' arms. Pax was given from one to the other until it passed along to the right and left all through the crowded sanctuary.

When mass was finished, the interesting part of the ceremony commenced. Cardinal McCloskey rose and knelt at the left hand side of the altar. The Archbishop of Baltimore stepped down from his throne and knelt at the epistle side. The audience rose with perceptible excitement, and some had the bad taste to crowd up amongst the the clergymen in the sanctuary. Ab Legate Monsignor Roncetti stood beside Archbishop Bayley, and in a loud, clear voice read the message, in Latin, from Pius Papa to his venerabilis frator, the Archbishop of Baltimore, sitting, for the reasons which induced him to confer the Cardinalate on Archbishop McCloskey, and at the close handed him a brief authorizing him to confer the berretta on this newly appointed prince of the Church.

The Archbishop, having replied in Latin, passed the brief over to Father McKean, Deacon of the Mass, who then read it.

Count Murefoschi then surrendered the berretta to Mgr. Roncetti, who handed it to Archbishop Bayley, who then walked over to the Cardinal and placed the cap on his head, at the same time addressing him in Latin as "Emenentia Tua."

The Cardinal made a suitable reply, also in Latin, and after intoning the Te Deum, retired to the vestry and put on the crimson robes of his office, and returned to the altar, while the choir sung the Te Deum. At the close of the hymn the Cardinal gave the Pontificial benediction, and the ceremonies were ended and the vast congregation passed out of the Cathedral.

Just before intoning the Te Deum, Cardinal McCloskey unexpectedly commenced an address in English, saying he had two duties to perform: first, to return thanks to the Papal delegates, and to the people who had attended in such numbers. He continued: "It is also our duty to make acknowledgments to you, venerable brethren and prelates; to you, the reverend clergy; to you, distinguished officials of the State and city; to all, to all for the honor that has been conferred upon us by your presence here this day. It would be proper for me to make this acknowledgment, and proper to say something of the solemn and interesting occasion which has been the cause of attracting within the walls of this venerable Cathedral such an august assemblage, but I regret to say that my feeble strength forbids it, and that I would be unequal to the task; and, besides, the ceremony has been protracted, and is not yet brought to a close, and I would not dare to venture, even if I could, to trespass on your patience. I will content myself with asking from you, on my own behalf, your sympathy and your prayers, and asking you to join with me, first, in giving heartfelt thanks to Almighty God, and after Him to the most Holy Father, the chief pastor of the Church and vice regent of Christ on earth, for their great and magnanimous favor which has been bestowed upon us, and for which we have endeavored to show for the hour gratitude in the solemnity of this day. We will return thanks to God and thanks to our Holy Father for the honor conferred upon us all, conferred, first, upon the venerable hierarchy of the Church, on all grades and orders, and upon the Catholic people, not simply of this city or diocese, but throughout the whole length and breadth of this land, and whose hearts on this day are made to throb with joy because of the good tidings that have come to them and the exhaltation and dignity to which the Church of America has been raised. It gives honor, also, not only to the hierarchy and the Catholic people, but it was the intent and purpose of the Holy Father to give honor to our whole country, to give honor and show his espect and esteem for our great and lorious republic, of which the Catholic opulation forms so essential a part, and vho are so loyally devoted to her institu-ions, and who, with God's blessing, to how their utmost efforts to strengthen and o save her and make her glorious and prosperous forever, on this day of thanksgiving vill join in heart while we ask God to bless is country, and also to make this the awn of a happier day for the Holy Father, long deferred, but sure to come at last, d that he may live to see the glory and lvation of his people.

The Scandal Case.

There was a small attendance on the andal trial to-day. Mr. Beecher and Mr. lton were both present. Mr. Evarts anounced that in consequence of the absence Mr. Beach, the direct examination of . Tracy would be postponed until toorrow.

J. F. St. George testified: Reported the mmunist procession in 1871, and saw lton, Tennie C. Claflin and Mrs. Woodll in the procession; they occupied the same carriage with Col. Blood; another carriage was occupied by Col. Ryan and Donovan Rossa.

On cross-examination by Mr. Fullerton, the witness swore that Tilton was in the carriage with Woodhull and Claflin.

Mr. Evarts announced, owing to the absence of Mr. Beach and a number of other witnesses, they could not proceed, and the Court adjourned till to-morrow.

A Notorious Villain Arrested.

Peter Smith, one of the gang of notorious villains, knocked Mrs. Bishop down, on Sixth avenue, at noon yesterday, and robbed her of a wallet containing $100, but was captured by a policeman after a hard chase. A rescue, by Smith's gang, was prevented only by the officer producing a revolver.

A Banquet to Carl Schurz.

A dinner was given this evening to ex-Senator Carl Schurz by a number of prominent citizens of New York prior to his departure for Europe on Thursday next. The banquet room was decorated with American and German flags, while a band discoursed excellent music during the evening. Hon. Wm. M. Evarts presided, while at his right sat the guest of the evening, Hon. Carl Schurz. About two hundred persons were present.

Insurance Troubles.

Four local insurance companies have withdrawn from the National Board of Underwriters since Saturday.

THE NEW ORLEANS DISASTER.

The Pittsburgh Party Arrives Home Yesterday—The Body of Mrs. Musgrave not yet Recovered—Some Thrilling Incidents in Connection With the Disaster.

The excursion party from Pittsburgh, who had taken a trip to New Orleans and who were on the Exporter at the time it was burned at New Orleans on last Friday afternoon, arrived at the Union Depot at ten o'clock yesterday morning from the South. The entire party was very much fatigued on account of the tediousness of the trip, and a few of them were somewhat indisposed. A representative of this paper called on Captain James Rees at his place of residence last night, in order that some further particulars might be learned in regard to the disaster, in which Mr. Rees is possibly the heaviest loser. On going to the family residence it was ascertained that the Captain had been ill for two or three days—indeed so much so that his physicians had prohibited visitors from seeing him. It was learned, however, that the body of Mrs. John A. Musgrave had not, as yet, been recovered from the watery grave. Mr. Musgrave left for New Orleans last Saturday, where he still remains waiting for the body of his wife to be found. The family of Mr. Rees is deeply affected on account of the loss of a sister and daughter and is anxiously awaiting intelligence informing them of the recovery of her body.

The family have the sympathy of the entire community in this their sad bereavement. The shock occasioned by the unexpected removal of one in the bloom of womanhood and under such trying circumstancesf, ar away from home and separated from her companions, is enough to call forth the many bitter tears of sorrow which have been shed for her whose body sleeps in death; and though dead to things terrestrial, and having passed into the great hereafter, her many kindly graces and amiable disposition will only be remembered by loving ones as worthy to be imitated, and as adornments of her spotless character. Her pure life will be a source of pleasant reflections to those with whom she was most intimately acquainted, and many are those who will ever hold her memory as dear.

The loss of Captain Rees is quite heavy, and will reach, in round numbers, nearly $70,000.

There is a partial insurance upon the property destroyed, the amount of which our reporter was unable to learn. Enough is known, however, to state that the policies held are all in good companies, and the money on them will be forthcoming in a few days at farthest.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

From the New Orleans papers we gather some further interesting particulars concerning the disaster.

Pilot Walsh Tenley makes the following statement of the Exporter: When I first heard the alarm of fire I was on the forecastle of the Exporter conversing with Captain John B. Conway, We rushed ashore and saw it was the John Kyle on fire, the second boat lying below the Exporter. We came to the conclusion we could drop our stages overboard on the plank wharf and pull the Exporter up the wharf out of danger. Just then the spectators commenced rushing on board the Exporter in great numbers, to witness the burning of the Kyle. I went aboard and unlashed the forward stage, and and then went ashore again to see how the fire on the Kyle was progressing. I then endeavored to get the colored crew to assist myself and the second mate, James Dunnigan, to haul the Exporter up the eddy out of danger, when some one cut our lines and the Exporter drifted out in the stream. A small line was passed from the steamer Louisville to the stern of the Exporter, which, from some unknown cause to me, was parted or cut. I then went forward on the main deck, and got on the bits and waived my hat, and begged a tug to come alongside and take of the people. The tug at this time was trying to throw water on the Exporter, but their stream did not reach us. In two minutes after our lines were cut, the Exporter was all in flames and all on board gathered on the forecastle, when they commenced jumping overboard into the river with plank, stages and everything that could be reached. I waited until all in sight had gone overboard, when I pulled off my boots and leaped overboard, without anything, and was picked up by the yawl of the Lessie Taylor in an insensible condition, while going down for the last time, by the second mate of the Lessie Taylor. Mrs. Musgrave was standing by my side on the nosing of the bow, and, seeing a plank, I told her to jump overboard and get on it. Just then the fire was so hot I had to go overboard myself on the other side between the Exporter and John Kyle. I did not see Mrs. Musgrave afterward. A large number of spectators, who had rushed on the Exporter, went overboard, many of whom were drowned. I left Mr. Jas. Rees, Jr., the clerk of the Exporter at New Orleans, trying to recover the body of his sister, Mrs. Musgrave. The first engineer, Robert Fitzsimmons, James Joyce, carpenter, Captain Jno. B. Conway, George Clinton, Mate, and Wash. Floyd, Second Clerk, are in New Orleans, and expect to return home in a few days. All baggage, boat's books, and everything, was lost. Several of the deck crew were lost, but owing to the loss of the books, their names could not be ascertained. The deck crew were shipped at Cincinnati and Louisville.

The clerk, Jas. Rees, Jr., and one of the chambermaids escaped on one of the boat's hatches, and were picked up by a tug. Mr. James Rees, Sr., and Mrs. Rees were on board, and taken off the Exporter in a skiff. Frank Stein, clerk of the Bodmann, came from the Bodman to the Exporter while the boats were out in the river, and afterwards jumped overboard, and held on to a ring-bolt on the Exporter's bow till rescued by a skiff. While there he was burned on the back of the neck and face. Captain O. P. Shingle, Eugene Shingle and Albert Shingle, all had to go overboard and swim for their lives, and escaped. Mr. Tenley says Engineer Case and Farard, of the Bodman, were certainly lost, as no tidings has been received of them up to Saturday night. When the alarm of the fire on the Kyle was given, it appears that the crowd on shore rushed on the Exporter to witness the burning of that steamer, supposing the Exporter was in no danger. The telegraphic accounts already published gave the details of this deplorable disaster. Mr. Tenley thinks that there were at least a hundred lives lost, the majority being those who rushed on the boats from the shore to witness the burning of the Kyle, and failed to get ashore before the lines of the Exporter and Bodman were cut and those boats drifted out in the river and burned.

Among the last to plunge from the steamer Exporter into the river were a lady and a deck hand. The man at once swam to the rescue of the woman, and after a desperate struggle succeeded in clasping the iron ring on the Exporter's bow with one hand, holding his precious charge with the other. The flames crept nearer and nearer, the iron hull glowed with a white heat, still the man clung to his only hope for life. After ten minutes had elapsed his precarious position was seen by a number of skiffs, who vainly tried to rescue the seemingly fated pair, but at each attempt were driven back by the flames. At last, when well nigh exhausted, a white skiff succeeded in passing the gauntlet of fire, and even as the helping hand was stretched forth to save, the exhausted woman relaxed her hold, the man's exhausted strength could no longer bear her weight, and she sank to rise no more. A few seconds after the man was pulled in safety into the skiff.

Maxwell, upon being interviewed, stated that he was a workman on the Bodmann when she caught fire from the Kyle. Although he could have gained the shore, the piteous appeals of the women induced him to stay. Launching a stage plank, he jumped into the river, and calling to two women, bade them follow for their lives. Unhesitatingly they took the fatal leap, and were assisted by him on the stage. The current drifted them directly against the burning vessel, notwithstanding his desperate exertions to push the stage in a contrary direction. While attempting to save the ladies, urged and encouraged by their agonizing shreiks, a burly negro seized a plank and jumped upon them, the plank striking Maxwell across the leg and precipitating him into the water. A few strokes were then taken, and he reached another plank, where, helplessly, he watched the negro, lost to everything but saving his life, make ineffectual attempts to gain the stage on which were the ladies. Suspecting the result, he turned around, and when he looked again the stage floated buoyantly past him, bottom upward—the ladies and their unintentional murderer had drowned.

Appointments by the President.

WASHINGTON, April 27, 1875.

The Railway Collision.

In addition to the names of the injured given in last night's dispatch are the following: Hugh Kernan, of Baltimore, formerly proprietor of the Comique in this city, both ankles badly smashed; S. L. Everett, City Treasurer of Cleveland, severe cut on the forehead; H. R. Stevens, of Ohio, slight cut on the back of the left hand; G. T. Needham, of the Sixth Auditor's office, both legs bruised below the knees; Crittenden Crane, brakeman on the Philadelphia train, right knee slightly hurt; and J. H. Robinson, of this city, badly bruised about the legs.

Conductor Buchanan, in his account of the accident, states that he left on time, and after passing the navy yard station, he found the train going extremely fast and upon a track it should not be upon. He pulled the bell rope for the engineer to down breaks and stop. The signal was not heeded and the rope was pulled a second time for the stoppage of the train, and again not properly responded to. At this time Mr. Buchanan was in the rear passenger car looking after tickets. When he found that his directions were neither noticed nor obeyed, and that his train was increasing its speed, he became alarmed. Thinking that the rope, in passing through the cars or over the tender, had become fast and thus prevented the bell on the engine from sounding, he started to go forward and give a verbal order for the returning of the train to the double track. The failure of the gong to sound or the engineer to hear and obey it, caused the accident. Before Buchanan could leave the car the two engines had met. Buchanan had just reached the car door and was about opening it, when the collision jammed his head through the glass window, inflicting wounds. He feels satisfied that if the signs had been properly and promptly answered by the engineer, the catastrophe would have been avoided.

Engineers McAffee and Fry, fireman Bechtel and passengers George W. Baker, Thomas Collins and George D. Arity were taken to the Providence Hospital yesterday, and are slowly improving, but all access to them is prohibited by the physicians.

Appointments.

The President to-day appointed Lieutenant Thornburgh, a brother of Congressman Thornburgh, of Tennessee, and Wm. Maynadier, a son of the late General, as Paymasters in the army to fill vacancies; also Benjamin Conley as Postmaster at Atlanta, Ga.

Ambassador from the Netherlands.

The Chevalier von Pestel was to-day introduced to the President by the Secretary of State, and delivered his credentials as Minister Resident of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands.

INDIANA.

Excitement in Masonic Circles—A Conflict of Authority Among the Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., April 27.—There is quite a stir in Masonic circles in this city, partly growing out of a notice in the dispatches of Saturday last from this place, which may lead to serious consequences to the Order, and especially to that branch known as Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine. From a statement in the Ledger-Standard this evening, it appears that Rev. Mr. Gierlow, a very prominent and zealous Mason, and pastor of the Episcopal church in this city, issued a warrant for the opening of a Conclave of the Order referred to from Sir Alfred Creigh, the supreme head of the Order in the United States, and through him a charter was obtained from England, and Conclave No. 117 was organized in September, 1874, and the charter arrived in January, 1875. Thereupon Mr. Gierlow organized Conclave No. 117, in the expectation of securing a sufficient number of Conclaves in other parts of the State to organize a State Council. Mr. Gierlow was also authorized by Intendant General Creigh to organize Conclaves in Kentucky. In the meantime other Masonic brethren in this city proceeded to organize five Conclaves under authority derived from Kentucky. These were organized in this city, and they at once proceeded to organize a Grand Council for the State of Indiana. The original Conclave No. 117, acting under the regular authority, appealed to Sir Alfred Creigh, the Intendant General of the United States, who has issued a proclamation announcing that the Conclaves organized in Kentucky and Indiana by authority of the State Intendant General of Michigan, Sir Burham Tracy, are illegal and irregular. Both parties to the controversy have already made another appeal to Sir Creigh, and his decision is anxiously awaited. In the meantime delegates from the two branches have gone to Indianapolis to lay the matter before the proper authorities there. A good deal of feeling has been engendered in this city on account of these difficulties, but it is presumed that they will graciously yield to those who are competent to give a proper decision.

FOREIGN NEWS.

FRANCE.

Representation at the Philadelphia Exhibition.

PARIS, April 27.—M. de Layayette, President of the French Commission for the Philadelphia Exhibition, states that encouraging letters have been received from all parts of France. Many deputations from metal manufacturers, the principal wine growers of Gironde, and merchants of Lyons, have visited the committee and promised active co-operation.

SPAIN.

Settling the Gustav Affair.

SANTANDER, April 27.—The last act in the settlement of the Gustav affair will be saluting by the Spanish fortification at Guetaria of the German flag. The German squadron has gone to Guetaria, the scene of the outrage, to receive the salute agreed upon.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Another Swim Across the Channel.

LONDON, April 27.—Paul Boynton will make a second attempt to swim across the channel. This time he will enter the water at Cape Grisnez, on the French coast, and push for Dover. The day appointed for the trial is May 27th.

CINCINNATI.

Proposed Railroad to Connect Chesapeake Bay and the Ohio River.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—The committee appointed a week ago at a convention held at Ironton, Ohio, in the interest of a railroad to connect Chesapeake bay and the Ohio river with Cincinnati by a road on the Ohio shore, met to-day in this city. It is composed of three men from each county through which the proposed line passes. No representative from Portsmouth was present. Benj. Eggleston acted as chairman. A paper was presented by Wm. Dwight, Jr., suggesting the organization of a company, to be called the Cincinnati, Ohio River & Virginia Railroad, with three million dollars deferred stock, with power to issue one million common stock after the road is built, the common stock to bear interest payable before the interest on deferred stock. After some discussion the whole matter of the financial basis was referred to a committee from Hamilton county, to report as soon as practicable.

HARRISBURG.

What It Costs to Maintain Order in the Coal Regions.

HARRISBURG, April 27.—The various estimates of the cost of keeping the troops in the coal regions have been grossly exaggerated. Some of these estimates fix the expenditures at $7,000 per day. Upon inquiry at the Auditor General's office the field return of General Osborne, dated the 17th inst., was taken and a calculation made therefrom. It was found that on that day there was in his command 605 men and forty-nine officers. The average pay of the men is fifty cents, and the officers five dollars per day. The daily cost of subsistence per man is about seventy cents. It was then found that the entire cost for pay and subsistence of all the troops in the service does not exceed $1,000 per day. This was the estimate made by the Adjutant General, and an investigation discovers that his calculation was correct.

THE FRIENDSHIP BOND CASE.

The Testimony of the Witnesses all in—The Points Upon which the Court is Asked to Instruct the Jury—The Case Being Argued.

The examination of the witnesses in the Clark-McCully case was concluded yesterday, after which counsel asked the Court to instruct the jury upon certain points of law. The plaintiff offered the following:

First—That the writing of April 17, 1872, in controversy in this case, is a testamentary writing.

Second—That subscribing witnesses to a testementary writing are not necessary to its validity.

Third—That the presumption of law is in favor of innocence, and a party who sets up the defense of fraud or forgery against a will or testamentary writing, is bound to establish the same by satisfactory evidence.

Fourth—That there is no evidence in this case to warrant the jury in finding that the signature of James McCully to the paper in controversy was procured by fraud or imposition, and there is no evidence in the case of want of testamentary capacity in James McCully.

Fifth—That if the jury find that the signature "James McCully" to the writing in controversy is the genuine signature of James McCully, their verdict should be for the plaintiff.

Mr. Hampton read the following points submitted by defendants' counsel:

The Court is respectfully requested to charge the jury on the part of the defendants.

First—That the plaintiff, claiming a verdict on the alleged testamentary paper in evidence, is bound to show to the jury, by full and satisfactory evidence, that the name of James McCully, claimed to have been signed by him to said paper was written by him, with knowledge of the contents thereof, and failing to satisfy them as to said fact, the defendants are entitled to a verdict.

Second—That in determining whether the name of James McCully, signed to said paper is genuine or not, they have a right to take said paper and the exhibits put in evidence bearing his name, and also the exhibits nine, ten and eleven, claimed to be imitations thereof, and compare them together, and consider them with all the other evidence in the case, as to the genuineness of said signature, and if upon a review of the whole evidence, they cannot find said signature to be genuine, their verdict should be for the defendants.

Third—That if the jury should even believe it, from the evidence, to be genuine, yet if they find that all written above it was without his knowledge or assent, such unauthorized writing would in law be a forgery, and the verdict should be for the defendants.

Fourth—That it being shown by the evidence clearly, and not controverted by the defendant, that the body of the alleged testamentary paper is in the handwriting of the plaintiff; that he was not related by blood to James McCully; that it is without subscribing witnesses; that he is the sole person to be benefitted thereby; that it was produced by the plaintiff after Mr. McCully's death, and that no witnesses other than said plaintiff is said to have seen said McCully sign said paper—such admitted facts raise a strong legal presumption against the genuineness of the signature of James McCully to said paper; and that the alleged testamentary was not the voluntary act of said McCully, it lies upon the plaintiff to show, by clear and satisfactory evidence, that the said James McCully signed said paper, and at the time of so doing he had knowledge of its contents and intended it to be valid and operative as a will.

Fifth—That if the jury upon a consideration of all the evidence in the case, believe that the alleged testamentary paper was not signed by James McCully, deceased, or that even if signed by him, he had no knowledge of its contents, and never intended by it that Robert D. Clark should receive the sum of $75,000, the verdict must be for the defendants.

Mr. Marshall occupied the greater part of the afternoon in addressing the jury, and will not conclude his remarks until this morning.

The case will hardly go to the jury before to-morrow.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The second personation of the "The Color Guard" drew a larger house last night and the performance met with as flattering a recognition as it did on the previous evening. There is much in this allegory to stir up the blood of youth, and it should be pleasing to old soldiers from the fact that it brings to memory many incidents of their campaigns and battles.

The comedy of the play is centered in the characters of Peter Hygley and Tom. Flynn, personated by Charley Collins and Mr. Owen. The former is intensely funny at times, more by actions that words.

Library Hall.

Quite an improved audience, in point of numbers, over that present on the opening night of his engagement, greeted Mr. J. L. Toole at Library Hall, last evening, and the marks of appreciation of his most excellent acting were correspondingly increased. The entertainment consisted of the drama of "The Cricket on the Hearth," taken from Charles Dickens' novel of that name, and a farce entitled "That Blessed Baby." In the first Mr. Toole enacted the character of Caleb Plummer, a part which he has evidently made a very careful study, as we cannot imagine how it could well be improved. The satisfactory manner in which the audience received the play may be judged from the fact that at its conclusion he was thrice called before the curtain, and a speech demanded, which was given. The concluding piece, in which Mr. Toole appeared as John Thomas, is quite funny, and kept the audience in great good humor during its entire performance. The general estimate that must be placed on Mr. Toole's pathetic powers is undoubtedly high, while in purely comic situations he is not without rivals. The support rendered on all occasions is admirable.

The Germania Orchestra.

The tenth concert of the Germania Orchestra will take place at Library Hall on Friday afternoon, beginning at three o'clock. The concerts which have been given by this orchestra heretofore have been of such a character as to recommend it to the favorable consideration of the amusement going public, and are a sufficient recommendation, in themselves, to guarantee a good house. The programme, which will be presented on Friday, comprises selections from some of the best musical compositions, and will no doubt be rendered in an attractive style. This orchestra deserves the reputation which it has already gained, and the coming intertainment promises to be one which will please those attending.

Trimble's Varieties.

For an evenings entertainment in the variety line no better theatre can be selected for a visit than this one. Mr. Aims has a good performance every night.

Musical and Dramatic Notes.

MISS FANNY DAVENPORT is credited with an ambition to play Lady Macbeth.

"ROSE MICHEL," the great dramatic success of the winter in Paris, has failed in London.

MME. RISTORI never takes a sleeping car, but sits up and out the longest railroad journey.

MISS MARIE FECHTER, a daughter of Charles, has been engaged for the Grand Opera, Paris.

KATE FIELD puts the amount annually expended on theatre patronage in New York city at $2,000,000.

MRS. CHARLES MOULTON, the celebrated singer, is now in Rome, "resplendent in white silk, black velvet, and Valenciennes lace."

CUSHMAN presented Ristori with a superb bouquet of the Italian color—red, white and green. The probable reason for giving this action the widest publicity is to dissipate certain current beliefs.

THE London Hornet says: "Miss Lydia Thompson finds her success in England too great to care about returning to America just yet. Mr. Sam Colville will probably take up her dropped engagements, taking out an English company and allotting special parts to his clever daughter, Miss Violetta Colville, the young prima donna."

THE San Francisco News Letter gives this "dressing" down to a popular actress: "Just look at Miss K. Rogers as Desdemona. Half drowned she lands on the wharves of Cyprus in the self-same wedding dress she wore in Venice, and then, albeit that she is a high born Venetian lady of the fifteenth century, she changes it for a nice, fast Parsian costume of the nineteenth century. No wonder Othello smothers her."

A PRIZE of £400 for a drama illustrating the American war of independence has been offered by M. Theodore Michaelis, the agent of the Sciete des Auteurs et Compositeurs Dramatiqes in Paris, who will also guarantee the production of the successful play and the division of profits with the author. M. Victor Hugo will preside over the adjudicators of the prize drama, which must be written in French prose and sent before next spring.

FROM the far away town of Brashear City, La., comes the following unique notice of Di Murska, which deserves a place among the original efforts of rural critics:—"Her voice is wonderful. She runs up and down the scale with the agility of an experienced cat running up and down a housetop and two or three fences thrown in. She turns figurative flip-flaps on every bar, tearing up the thermometer to way above 212, and sliding down again so far below zero that one feels chilled to the bone."

MONONGAHELA PRESBYTERY.

Adjourned Meeting Yesterday—Considering Calls—The New South Side Church.

Yesterday morning the Monongahela U. P. church held a meeting in the Rev. Mr. Frazier's church on Diamond street. The first business done was the considering of a call from the congregation in Robinson township, for Rev. John L. Aten, of Morning Sun, Ohio. The call was sustained as regular and the Secretary was directed to have it forwarded to the Presbytery to which he belongs. A call was also presented from the Jefferson congregation, Jefferson township, addressed to the Rev. R. H. Stewart, of Nebraska. This call was also sustained as regular and ordered to be laid upon the table, until Rev. Stewart would receive his certificate from the Presbytery to which he belongs.

The Committee appointed at the last meeting to visit Birmingham and report the facts in the matter of the new church organization there, submitted a lengthy report. This new organization is composed of those who have left the church presided over by Rev. Wm. Coleman. The Committee recounted at length the facts connected with the organization, and a warm discussion ensued. Some favored reorganizing the old church, others opposed it. Finally the Presbytery decided to recognize it.

After the transaction of some other routine business the meeting adjourned.

European Steamship Arrivals Yesterday.

Digging Wells for Draining.

At a Massachusetts legislative agricultural meeting, Wm. H. Hopkins is reported as saying that he had been very successful in draining by digging wells and filling them up with stones. He had found it comparatively easy to reclaim lands in this way so that they would produce very large crops. He said he had never expended a dollar in draining but what he was amply repaid for what he laid out. He also alluded to tile draining, with which he had had some successful experience.

Boys and Girls in Biology;

Or, Simple Studies of the Lower Forms of Life. Based upon the Latest Lectures of Prof. T. H. Huxley and published by his permission. By Sarah Hackett Stevenson. Illustrated by Miss M. A. J. Macomish. 1 vol., 12mo. Cloth $1.50.

"The possibility of interesting young people, even little children, in the science of simple things, occurred to me the first time I ever had the pleasure of listening to Professor Huxley. His lucid description of the yeast plant recalled the play of my childhood, and then and there was suggested the plan of which this volume is the attempted execution. It was originally written in the form of letters from England to my little nephew in America; by a subsequent modification it assumed its present form of Scientific Talks with Boys and Girls."

The Republicans of Lawrence county have elected S. W. McKinley as Senatorial Delegate to the State Convention and Hon. John W. Wallace and Col. O. L. Jackson as Representative Delegates to the same. They were instructed to vote for Wallace, for State Treasurer, first, last and all the time.

Considerable significance is attached to the Venetian visit of Francis Joseph, of Austria, as the Austrian and Italian Prime Ministers were in close conference during the time of the festivities observed. Just what is involved is not, of course, known; but the Pope thought the occasion significant enough to order the Church dignitaries to join in the festivities of the occasion. This was a very important concession, in view of the relations existing between the Pope and the dignitaries mentioned.

The Viceroy of Egypt has determined to have reproduced, at our Centennial Exposition, the tomb of Beni Hassan, which attracted so much interest at Vienna. It begins to be evident that foreign governments and nations will take a very deep interest in our Centennial, and it promises thus to involve a better development of the arts an industries of foreign countries than any Exposition ever held. Large appropriations have been made, and extensive preparations are in progress to secure a proper representation. It is thus evident that we will be brought into active competition with foreign countries, and if our people are not as well represented, as to their industries and products, it will be their own fault. It is usually expected that the larger portion of any display will come from the people in whose midst it is held. In this country, so famed for its machinery, its skill in the useful arts, and its activity in inventing and producing labor-saving machines, it will be particularly unfortunate, if we are outrivaled in the display. We have, indeed, no fear of this, although it is desirable that we should be active soon, in order that time enough may be had to thoroughly prepare such articles as may be designed for exhibition. The Centennial is the great opportunity of the country, if it would exhibit to advantage what progress it has made.

We fear the Philadelphia Times is more sarcastic than sincere in the advice it tenders the President, with reference to the reconstruction of his Cabinet. Certainly it did not mean to overlook the meritorious services of Andy Curtin, which recommend him so highly, say to the Interior Department. His services secured, and those of the renowned McClure would follow,—and if the Indians are not manipulated as profitably as the tonnage tax was once reported to be, it will not be their fault. In cases of difficulty or doubt, the ex-Governor could delay positive action, under the inspiration of his old friend, chronic rheumatism, until the emergencies had passed by. Then, when the public is to be convinced, or some delicate phase of policy is to be developed, who so apt in addressing the masses in pathetic sentences as the two worthies above named? Indeed, we incline to boldly recommend McClure for Secretary of the Treasury,—so skilled is he in financial operations. The final merit might be considered, that if, at the close of the term, there is doubt or uncertainty resting on the fortunes of the President, the gentry referred to would easily and gracefully transfer their affections and services to the opposite party. The advantage of this would be, that the President and all concerned might be certain that whatever party they went to, would be beaten out of sight.

Were it not disgusting, it would be amusing to consider the amazing aspirations of Tilton and Woodhull, as to Spiritualistic leadership. An abomination had been conjured up in their weak and insipid brains, in the shape of a free love enterprise with Spiritualism attached, and each pledged the other the necessary aid toward becoming a leader. That is, Theodore was to be the male, and Victoria the female leader. To this end, the Golden Age was to sustain Woodhull's Weekly, and vice versa. So they dreamed, and fawned, and made love to each other. Had it been possible to realize their dreams, it would have amounted to nothing. A wild, crazy throng of sentimentalists would have been gathered, with the giraffe-like Theodore at their head, and the Woodhull as a left hand supporter. This, it seems, was the ambition of the young man. Children often imagine themselves kings and queens of a garden spot, and dream of a brilliant leadership in the far away future. Generally, however, there is something tangible in their aspirations. But the voluptuaries of the Spiritualist movement had no higher aim than that of attempting to lead a few abstractionists in the worship of an idea as old as the hills, and as immoral as old. And this worship of passion was, by them, elevated into a new revelation that would revolutionize society. The utter absurdity of their course could not be better illustrated.

We hope our Centennial celebration will not be made the occasion for interminable discussions relative to precedence of events in one place or other. Concord and Lexington celebrated the centennial of the battles fought there, and in so doing, merely observed events, the date of which was well ascertained. Immediately, however, we have other places, not omitting a point in Westmoreland county, which claim priority in revolutionary service. Among the most persistent of these claimants is Mecklenburg, North Carolina, which claims to have uttered a Declaration of Independence in May 1775. They have determined to celebrate their centennial on the 20th of May next. To all this, no objection will be made. We think there is a disposition to observe the broadest charity toward any and all who may wish to celebrate. Yet strict fidelity to historical accuracy requires us to state that Mr. Jefferson very earnestly repudiated the Mecklenburg declaration, and affirmed it was not genuine. The claim in its behalf seems never to have been formally put forward till those who were said to know the facts were dead. There was, however, published in a New York paper, about a year subsequent to the Mecklenburg meeting, a series of resolutions, favoring liberty under certain conditions, but they did not amount to a positive Declaration of Independence. At all events, that generally put forward was doubtless spurious. Still, let them celebrate, all the same.

The correspondent of the New York Times, writing from this city, relative to the end of the iron strike, explains that the mill owners, in closing the contest, did not recognize the Union, but dealt with their own men. He further shows how the Wheeling nail manufactories sought to stock the market in advance, during our strike, and then induce our dealers to join in a move to advance prices. He says, of the Wheeling factories and their strike, "At present writing all the mills, except the La Belle, are idle. The weekly capacity of those idle is about 20,000 kegs. I am inclined to believe there is something behind all this that outside barbarians are not supposed to know. Following, as it does, on the heels of the Pittsburgh strike, and after a series of desperate efforts on the part of the Wheeling manufacturers to get Pittsburgh to consent to an advance in nails, it would not be a surprising thing if the Wheeling manufacturers were more pleased than otherwise. For the past four months they have been running night and day. They have placed hundreds of thousands of kegs of nails all over the country, at $3 per keg, cash, and in some instances less. Many of these nails were sold on a guaranteed advance, that is the seller guaranteed to the buyer that within a certain time nails should be advanced in price. This was done to cut Pittsburgh out of the market, and to so stock it that the Smoky City could sell no nails when the strike was ended. Pittsburgh was invited to assist in this little game by consenting to an advance, but the "invitation was declined with thanks." This strike at Wheeling will very likely advance the price of nails, though it may not, as I hardly think Pittsburgh manufacturers or workmen will join in it." This shows, quite clearly, the character of the charity manifested toward our manufacturers, at the time of the strike.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

The interest felt in the proposed action of the Republican County Executive Committee, led to a large attendance yesterday, and to an animated discussion of the several propositions that were brought forward. The early Convention theory was carried, the time selected being about the middle of June. The Allegheny members, and mainly the old men, opposed this, and the young element favored it. If all else is made to suit, we do not see that there is any harm in an early Convention. The candidates generally are good men, and we do not think that injury will result from the nomination of any of these. We need time for the reorganization of the party, and this will be given us by the holding of early Conventions. So far, all seems to be well. The canvass, this year, will be a very lively one, and with a good ticket, we will need the time for all the work that is to be done.

We are not particularly impressed with the delegation sent to the State Convention. It seems to be partially made up of men who, while good enough in themselves, lack in some of the qualities that are particularly important. Perhaps we need some of that kind of representation, but it would have been quite as well if another description of material had been selected, at least as to part of the delegation. In saying this, we mean no expression of ill-will, as we have none, but it must be evident that the delegation will only be felt in the State Convention in its voting strength, not in its managing or speaking qualities. It were much better that the whole question had been remanded to the people. Either the delegation should have been exceptionally a good one, or have been given to the people to elect. It is at best a weak one, and has been appointed in an unpopular manner. The worst of it was, that printed tickets were circulated, showing that the ticket, bad as it proved to be, had been deliberately arranged. Had about half of it been what it should be, the other half might have been tolerated. As it is, the first move of the Committee, so far as delegates go, was about as disastrous as it could well be. The sooner this Committee is dissolved, the better for the party.

We have now before us a duty that is too clearly defined to be longer deferred. The better element of the Republican party must come to the front. We have, in the list of aspirants for county offices, good men, and if these are nominated, and a suitable committee organized, we will yet be all right. But a thorough change is essential,—not that many of those who are in the committee are not, in themselves, excellent men, but that the business of the committee has been seriously bungled. When old and staunch Republicans, who never did anything else than vote the ticket, call a halt, it is time to heed. And that time has come. The early Conventions are, we now think, all the better, that they give an opportunity to secure such a change as will lead to right results. The Republican party of Allegheny county is all right. It can give one of its old time victories, under right leadership, and for the right men. The vote for Governor Hartranft will be reliable, as also for a suitable candidate for State Treasurer. We still think we will have good county candidates,—knowing that we have an ample supply of the right kind of material offering. It is important, therefore, that we have proper delegates to the County Conventions, and then, that these give us good candidates and an efficient County Committee.

TECHNICAL SCHOOLS.

The subject of Industrial Schools is being agitated in Philadelphia very vigorously. Professor Walter Smith, who has had large experience in connection with Industrial education in Europe, lectured in Philadelphia a few evenings since, before the most intelligent and influential citizens, and the press devotes considerable space, in local reports and editorial comments, to his lecture. Portions of his lecture were so palpably, and strongly applicable to this city, that we excerpt from the Ledger, that our manufacturers may see how their interests are affected by Industrial Education. He says, "There is time in the experience of an industrial manufacturing country when the industrial commerce of that country can be rested entirely on the superior quality and durability of the products made or fabricated. Great Britain was in that position thirty or forty years ago. But competing communities not only learned to rival her as to quality and durability, but some of the continental nations added another element to their products, viz.: an elegance and beauty of finish which the British products of the same general description did not possess. There was an active market for these more beautiful and more tasteful productions, and British producers, artisans and manufacturers found themselves in danger of losing their holds upon the marts of the world. The strongest intimations of the distance by which they were led by some of their continental competitors came along about the time of the first London International Exhibition, in 1851. They then found themselves far away behind in everything which pertains to artistic beauty and elegance of design in patterns, grouping of colors, gracefulness of form, even in that ample and inexpensive ornamentation which adds so much to the enjoyment of many familiar objects. They were behind something more than this—(and they have not got fully abreast of the world in this regard to this day)—their main dependence in giving strength to some works of construction, and to some important implements, was by using enormous amounts of material, thus making the works or the implements heavy and cumbersome and expensive beyond any necessity. Following the Exhibition of 1851, in which their shortcomings were made sharply apparent, they set to work establishing and promoting industrial art schools, and by the time the French Exhibitions of 1867 came around they had caught up their arrearage, and their fabrics, and implements, and furniture, and table ware, and art works, showed a beauty of design and a variety of pattern, and a handiness and general improvement unknown to them before."

He advocates, as the basis of all else, in the line of Industrial education, drawing in the Common Schools. Elegance of design refers, first, to this. We are glad to say that we have this, already, in our schools, with evening special schools for the exclusive teaching of mechanical and free hand drawing. In this, we think we are ahead of Philadelphia. But the interest excited there, by Professor Smith's lectures, will not only lead to this elementary instruction in the schools, but, quite certainly, to an Industrial School as well. We believe it would be well to invite him to visit this city,—as we have, already, a partially prepared public sentiment, ready to respond to the direction of a practical mind. In any event, the fact that Philadelphia is being so thoroughly aroused on the subject bodes ill for us. We had entertained the hope that Pittsburgh would be first among the cities of the State to establish an Industrial School for the education of her children. Our industries are so entirely of the manufacturing order, and their advancement depends so largely on the intelligence and skill of our operatives, that if we desire to compete against other points in the great struggle, we must take steps to produce the skill we require. It is just in this that we foolishly delay. Old plans, methods, and forms of product will not answer for the future. Skill at other points is actively competing against the advantages we possess. Let England's experience be a warning to us, that energy and forethought are needed.

It is strange that, though the Italian Consul at New York, Mr. Ferdinand de Lucca, has been decorated by the King of Italy for the suppression of the traffic in Italian children carried on by the padroni, no notice whatever has been taken of Captain Celso Cæsar Moreno, who was really the originator of the movement, and it was through his instrumentality that the law forbidding this nefarious business was passed both here and in Italy. The King of Italy doubtless has not been informed of the fact, so well known in New York, that Captain Moreno did all the work, while the Consul has the reward.

All the way from Colorado comes this explanation of the hole in William Penn's pocket handkerchief: "This morning Mr. Penn went out under the tree to conclude his celebrated land-grabbing operation with the Indians, the forest foliage was laden with a heavy dew, and, as the young Indian chiefs and maidens put on the brass rings and glass beads, which the conscientious William had given them in exchange for their broad square leagues of fertile land, and commenced to dance in joy, they shook down the dew on his venerable head and he caught a severe cold in his nose. And the vigorous use to which he was obliged to put his handkerchief resulted in wearing a big hole in it."

A curious case of personal liberty has just been decided in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. Augusta Exner, age 20, was entitled to $3,000 as an heir to the estate of her father, the late August Exner. According to an affidavit by Christian L. The girl was brought before Justice Pratt on Saturday on a writ of habeas corpus. At her own request she was restored to her mother by order of the Court.

To Clean a Rusty Plow.

Take a quart of water and pour slowly into half a pint of sulphuric acid. The mixture will become quite warm from chemical action, and this is the reason why the acid should be poured slowly into the water rather than the water into the acid, and let it remain on the iron until it evaporates. Then wash it again. The object is to give the acid time to dissolve the rust. Then wash with water, and you will see where the worst spots are. Apply some more acid, and rub on those spots with a brick. The acid and the scouring will remove most of the rust. Then wash the mold-board thoroughly with water to remove all the acid, and rub it dry. Bruse it over with petroleum or other oil and let it be till spring.

WAR HORRORS IN SPAIN.

Execution of Prisoners by the Carlists and Alfonsists—Sixteen Men Shot to Death—Bloody Scenes.

[Estella Cor. London Times, April 7.]

General Mendiry has at last carried out to the bitter end his oft-repeated threat of reprisals, and to-day eight unfortunate Alfonsist prisoners fell victims, not to Carlist cruelty, but to the barbarous system on which the Alfonsist authorities permit their "contraguerrilleros" to carry on the war. I cannot do better than send you a literal translation of the address of the distinguished Carlist chief to his soldiers on this necessary act of justice, which no one deplored more than himself:

MENDIRY'S JUSTIFICATION.

Volunteers.—This morning there were executed eight prisoners, chosen by lot, in reprisal for the same number of our volunteers who, after surrendering under the promise of receiving quarter, were barbarously assassinated in San Martin de Unz by the enemy's "contraguerrillero," Tirso Lacalle. Some time ago there would also have been shot, had not the clemency of His Majesty the King our sire (whom God protect) granted them pardon, eight other prisoners, in reprisal for a like number of volunteers assassinated by the same "contraguerrillero" in Murillo del Cuende, in Larraga, on the high road to Tafalla, and in San Martin de Unz. Public justice having been satisfied by the blood which has been shed, I wish to make some observations on the conduct of our enemies. If they walk in the path of dignity and honor (nobleza), we shall be, however, as it were, in their van, and shall carry on the war in a manner which befits the regular armies of a civilized nation; but if they pursue the opposite path, we shall, without directly following them in their inhuman acts of cruelty, be driven by necessity and justice to wage a war without quarter. As a soldier, as a Spaniard and a man of honor (caballero) I grieve deeply at the shedding of a single drop of blood away from the battle field, but at the same time I cannot consent that my soldiers should be brutally assassinated by bands of abandoned ruffians whom the enemy patronizes and admits into her bosom.

Volunteers, let all your actions be inspired by the sacred motto of our banner, and thus, reposing confidence in your Generals, and yielding obedience to your officers, we shall soon carry the struggle in which we are engaged to a successful end, and seat on the throne of his ancestors our own beloved Sovereign. Viva la Religion! Viva Espana! Viva Carlos VII! Your General,
TORCUATO MENDIRY.
Estella, April 7, 1875.

THE DREAD CAUSE OF A DREADFUL DEED.

The act of cruelty which led to this terrible reprisal was perpetrated a few days ago in the village of San Martin de Unz, a few miles from Tarfalla. A small band of Rosa's "partidas," who had established themselves in that village, were coming out of church after hearing mass, when they were informed by a peasant that the village was surrounded by the Alfonsists. They immediately endeavored to cut their way through the enemy's lines, and a sergeant, with four men, succeeded, but the others, eight in number, finding themselves completely outnumbered, surrendered to a squadron of cavalry, after having first received a promise of quarter. No sooner, however, had the cavalry conducted their prisoners back to San Martin than the "contraguerrilleros" of the notoriously cruel Lacalle set upon them and massacred seven of them on the spot with their bayonets.

THE SURVIVOR

escaped to a neighboring house, where he barricaded the door and determined to sell his life as dearly as possible. He was at last induced to surrender by the most solemn assurances that his life would be spared, but, on his opening the door, he was seized, the muzzle of a rifle was forced into his mouth and his brains were blown out.

REPRISAL A NECESSITY.

General Mendiry, directly he heard of what happened, addressed himself to General Quesada, the Commander-in-Chief of the Alfonsist army, insisting upon satisfaction being given, and proposing that a joint commission of the two armies should inquire into the circumstances and bring the guilty parties to punishment. Four or five days had been passed in the negotiations, when Mendiry, seeing that the enemy did not intend to accept his proposal, determined to put into execution the stern law of reprisals.

HOW THE ALFONSISTS DIED.

Last night orders were given to the authorities of the Estella depot, where about 600 Alfonsist prisoners are located, to select by lot seven soldiers and one Sergeant, who were to be prepared for execution the following morning. Lots were drawn, and soon after nine this morning the unfortunate men selected were marched to the parade ground, outside Estella, each accompanied by a priest and holding a crucifix in his hand.

THE SUPREME MOMENT.

The regiments of Navarre, Castile and Aragon, quartered in and near Estella, each sent one company to witness the execution, and a battery of artillery and a squadron of cavalry were likewise present. General Mendiry and his staff having arrived on the ground, the troops formed three sides of a square, and in the middle were placed kneeling beside their confessors, the destined victims.

The last moment had arrived, the priests were on the point of bidding a last farewell, when suddenly one of the prisoners, a Navarrese irregular, sprung to his feet and made which was only about ten yards off. The guards immediately fired, and a ball struck the unfortunate man in the back. This, however, did not stop him. He staggered forward, and, throwing himself into the water, struck out gamely for dear life. A second ball, however, put an end to his exertions and sent him to the bottom to rise no more. After this terrible episode, trying alike to the executioners and the doomed, the last act of retaliation was solemnly performed, and eight more of poor Spain's children were sent to an untimely grave.

A RURAL CRITIC.

What He Thought of Mme. Carreno Sauret.

(From the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Sentinel.)

After the concert was over, he quietly took us aside, and gave vent as follows to his pentup feelings: "I tell you, mister, she was a slasher. Our Gennie couldn't hold a candle to her. When she first set down, she looked kind of wild, then with a howl dug her finger nails into them ere rough notes, and shot 'em like lightning up into the thin ones. Then she paused for a reply, mister. She then commenced at the right hand side, went a rippin' down hand over fist, till she got clean down, makin' a noise like thunder. She then yanked a handful out of the centre, and planted them at the end, then wiggled around with two fingers, grabbed up another fistful, punched right and left, went ripety-hopety-scotchy up and down, and I tell you that 'ere pianner howled. She then gave another snort, and when she went she busted in like mad, raised up off her chair, stuffed three fingersful there, caromed six more in the corner, gobbled up a few more tunes, and settled their hash in about a minute. After that she tackled it with her left hand alone. Between you and me, mister, the man that owned that 'ere pianner went shiftin' around on his chair as though he had a carpet-tack under him. Good night, mister."

Barns and Barnyards.

Nothing so plainly shows the good farmer as large, well-filled barns, and compact, sheltered barnyards for protection of stock in Winter. A great improvement is taking place in these respects, and more is needed and will be had as its importance is better understood. Riding recently through an excellent farming town I was surprised to notice how carefully, shrewd and prosperous farmers had utilized easterly exposed knolls as sites for barns and barnyards. Our coldest winds are from the west, and riding on a north and south road I noticed for several miles that every barnyard was located on the easterly side of a hill, so as to give a basement underneath, and a level, or nearly level, drive way from the west on the barn floor above. In many places a corn-house and carriage-barn was placed on the north and south sides of the yard, leaving only one side exposed, which would be protected by a high and tight board fence, and the basements under the barn would be further protected by straw stacks and board partitions, leaving only doorways for the passage of cattle. In such yards horses and even cows can be wintered with the smallest amount of labor, and horses not used during the winter will keep better and come out better and stronger in spring, if allowed to run loose in the barn-yard, than if carefully stabled on wooden floors during the winter. Take off the shoes, and let them run loose till the middle of March or 1st of April. Much of their winter keep will be got from the straw-stack, to the great saving of the hay mow, and when you begin to feed for spring work, the horses will soon be in better condition than ever to resume spring work. This is particularly true of old animals that have apparently ceased to be valuable. Many a man has turned his old mare in the barnyard to pick her living as best she could with the cattle, and found the following summer that she was better for work than in several seasons previous. Stabling under ground may not be good policy, but I am satisfied that letting animals run loose in barn basements is advisable, tying them only at night where they would otherwise be too crowded, or the stronger would drive the weaker out of doors.—Country Gentleman.

A DETROIT SPELLING MATCH.

A Tussle Between Old Mr. and Mrs. Coffin.

The other evening old Mr. and Mrs. Coffin, who live on Brush street, sat in their cozy back parlor, he reading his paper and she knitting, and the family cat stretched out under the stove and sighed and felt sorry for cats not so well fixed. It was a happy, contented household, and there was love in his heart as Mr. Coffin put down his newspaper and remarked:

"I see that the whole country is becoming excited about spelling-schools."

"Well, its good to know how to spell," replied the wife. "I didn't have the chance some girls had, but I pride myself that I can spell almost any word that comes along."

"I'll see about that," he laughed; "come-now, spell 'buggy.'"

"Humph! that's nothing—b-u-g-g-y, buggy," she replied.

"Missed the first time—ha! ha!" he roared, slapping his leg.

"Not much, that was right."

"It was, eh? Well, I'd like to see anybody get two g's in buggy, I would."

"But it is spelled with two g's, and any schoolboy will tell you so," she persisted.

"Well, I know a darn sight better than that!" he exclaimed, striking the table with his fist.

"I don't care what you know!" she squeaked; "I know that there are two g's in buggy!"

"Do you mean to tell me that I've forgotten how so spell?" he asked.

"It looks that way."

"It does, eh? Well, I want you and all your relations to understand that I know more about spelling than the whole caboodle of you strung on a wire!"

"And I want you to understand, Jonathan Coffin, that you are an ignorant old blockhead, when you don't put two g's in the word buggy—yes, you are?"

"Don't talk that way to me!" he warned.

"And don't shake your fist at me!" she replied.

"Who's shaking his fist?"

"You were!"

"That's a lie—an infernal lie!"

"Don't call me a liar, you old bazaar! I've put up with your meanness for forty years past, but don't call me a liar, and don't lay a hand on me!"

"Do you want a divorce?" he shouted, springing up; "you can go now, this minute!"

"Don't spit in my face—don't you dare do it or I'll make a dead man of you!" she warned.

"I haven't spit on your freckled old visage yet, but I may if you provoke me farther!"

"Who's got a freckled face, you old turkey buzzard?"

That was a little too much. He made a motion as if he would strike, and she seized him by the neck-tie. Then he reached out and grabbed her right ear, and tried to lift her off her feet, but she twisted up on the neck-tie until his tongue ran out.

"Let go of me, you old fiend!" she screamed.

"Git down on yer knees and beg my pardon, you old wild cat!" he replied.

They surged and swayed and struggled, and the peaceful cat was struck by the overturning table and had her back broken, while the clock fell down and the pictures danced around. The woman finally shut her husband's supply of air off and flopped him, and as she bumped his head up and down on the floor and scattered his gray hairs she shouted:

"You want to get up another spelling-school with me, don't you?"

He was seen limping around the yard yesterday, a stocking pinned around his throat, and she had a courr-plaster on her nose and one finger tied up. He wore the looks of a martyr, while she had the bearing of a victor, and from this time out "buggy" will be spelled with two g's in that house.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, April 28, 1875.

There was less demand for money at the banks yesterday, and a moderate activity was apparent, in the various departments of trade. This was only a temporary event, we are persuaded, yet it is significant, all the same. Our advance in prosperity will be irregular, and we may count ourselves fortunate if the worst phases of our difficulties are safely overcome, and we can regard our manufactories as permanently sure of profitable work. We refer in our editorial columns to one of the mean advantages taken by Wheeling against our nail trade. It overstocked the market at a low price, and now pleads with our manufacturers to aid in their own destruction by holding back further supplies, the pretence being that they will increase prices. We are well satisfied that in other departments of the iron trade there will be efforts to cut under, but we anticipate little further trouble. Our manufacturers are ...ed, and even our workmen can see that outside parties are opposed to their interests.

There is quite a large amount of iron paper, in the form of bills, and current cash paper, passing through our banks, but notes for discount are as yet presented in very moderate amounts. Still the banks are expectant that a fortnight will find their funds well drawn upon.

NEW YORK, April 27, 1875.

Money was easy at 3 per cent.; choice mercantile paper 4@4 1-4; prime 4 1-2@5 1-2. Sterling was quiet at 487 1-2 for sixty days and 490 1-4 for sight. The exports of produce for the week were $3,902,349. The customs receipts were $292,000. Gold was dull at 115 1-4. The borrowing rates were 1, 4, at and 1-64 per diem. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $160,000. The clearings were $32,000,000. Government and railroad bonds were firm. State bonds were quiet.

The Stock Exchange was a scene to-day of increased activity and buoyancy. There was an active investment demand for all dividend-paying shares, and prices advanced sharply. To-day individual capitalists were selling Governments and buying railway bonds and dividend-paying shares. New Jersey Central advanced 3½ per cent., from 116¼ to 120. New York Central was more active than usual, and rose from 102⅝ to 105. Delaware, Lackawanna & Western opened at 123, an advance of 3 per cent. Harlem advanced 5 per cent., from 133 to 138. Among the other shares Union Pacific was firm, and advanced from 77⅛ to 78¼ on favorable advices from the line of the road about the freshets. Rock Island rose from 103¾ to 105⅝. Western Union was active, and ranged from 77⅝ to 78¼. Missouri Pacific advanced from 52½ to 54¼. Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph was more active, and advanced to 27 early in the day. Lake Shore rose from 70⅛ to 70⅝, and afterwards reacted to 70½. Kansas Pacific, after advancing to 25¾, fell off to 24¼. Northwest Common rose from 41⅝ to 42⅝, and preferred from 54 to 55. Panama fell off from 165 to 164, and later rose to 166. United States Express declined from 56½ to 52.

At the close there was a general reaction in the market from the highest point of the day. The strongest stock on the list at the close was Northwest, which closed at the highest point. The recent raid on that stock was for the purpose of shaking out small holders. The transaction aggregated 7,000 shares, of which 45,000 were Pacific Mail, 89,000 Western Union, 11,000 Northwest common, 36,000 Rock Island, 19,000 Erie 34,000 Lake Shore, 7,000 New York Central, and 28,000 Union Pacific.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, April 27, 1875.

The Crude market continues dull and neglected, and prices, if anything, were a shade lower as compared with yesterday; immediate shipment sold at $1.57½@1,60 ℔ bbl at Parker, and barge oil was offered at $1,80 delivered on the first water. Some of the refiners continue to buy, from which it is evident that they are determined to follow the market down. Refined also continues dull, but prices are nominally unchanged; sales for early May at 11¼c delivered at Connellsville depot to go to Baltimore; c bid, deliverable on Penna. cars, to go to Philadelphia.

There is not much doing in barrels; sales of country at $1.15 and city make at $1,30, although some coopers are still holding the latter at $1,35.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, April 27, 1875.

The fine weather of the past day or two has infused more life into general business, and a better feeling prevails in commercial circles; however, the demand for the leading staples is still confined to supplying immediate wants, while as regards values there have been no important changes since the date of our last report.

APPLES—There is a fair demand for small lots, and with a meagre supply prices are fully sustained; sales at $2@2,50 ℔ bbl for common to fair and $3@3,50 for prime to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—50@55c ℔ gal.

BEANS—The market continues quiet and unchanged; mediums, $1,75@1,80; navies, $1,85@1,90 in a round lot way.

BUTTER—There is a continued steady demand for the better grades, and with a very meagre supply prices are fully maintained; 27@30 for fair to prime roll and 33@35 for prime to choice dairy. Old stock continues very dull.

CRANBERRIES—$10@12 ℔ bbl.

CHEESE—Is fairly active but unchanged at 16½@17c for prime Ohio Goshen, and 17@17½ cents for New York.

DRIED FRUIT—There is a firmer feeling as regards Peaches, in consequence of reports that the recent cold, freezing weather had ruined the coming crop in many localities, but the demand is only fair; halves quotable at 9@9½c. Apples, 7@8c. Blackberries dull at 9@10. Elderberries, 6@7.

EGGS—The market was a shade firmer to-day, with sales reported at 15@16—mostly at 15.

FLOUR—The general tone of the market continues firm, and while the demand is only moderate, the recent advance is fully maintained. Spring wheat flours, $5,75@5,85 for Wisconsins and $6@6,25 for Minnesotas; winters, $6@6,25 for red and $6,50@6,75 for amber and white. Rye Flour, $5,.75@6.

GROCERIES—There is a very fair demand for the leading staples, but the markets present no new or important features to which reference has not already been made. Coffee and Sugars continue very firm, and our latest advices from the east indicate an early advance in refined Sugars.

GRAIN—There is considerable inquiry for Wheat and but little offering; quotable at $1,18@1,20 for Penna and Ohio red, and $1,22@1,25 for amber and white. It is said that there is no margin at quotations, yet we opine to the belief that it would be difficult to obtain any more. The Oat market appears to be a shade easier, but there has been no quotable decline as yet, and dealers generally are impressed with the belief that there is not likely to be soon; however, we understand that several cars of white were sold, on Monday, free in elevator at 70. Quotations may be given at 68@69 for mixed, and 70@71 for white. Ear corn very scarce and wanted; 84@86c on track, according to quality; Shelled, 83@85 for mixed to yellow, free in elevator. Rye is in limited supply, and would sell readily at $1.20.

HAY—Baled is reported firmer but unchanged; $17@18 for prairie and $20@23 for timothy, according to quality.

HOMINY—4,25@4,50 ℔ bbl.

MAPLE SYRUP—$1.15@1,25 ℔ gallon jugs.

ONIONS—$3,50@1,50 ℔ bbl, according to quality and condition. Union Setts, $7@8 ℔ bu.

POTATOES—There is a fair jobbing trade, but the supply is still somewhat in excess of present requirements, and prices remain as last quoted; $1@1,10 per bushel for small lots, the outside figure for prime Peach Blows.

New York Breadstuffs Market—Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Our Wheat market since this day week has been fairly active, and we have had to note much variableness; soon after our last holders of Spring, under the less favorable English advices, evinced more desire to realize, and to do so submitted to a decline of 2@3c ℔ bushel; but business was of short duration, later reports from the West (which reached us on Monday and Tuesday) in regard to the injury to the Wheat crop and of the great delay at the North-west in getting in the Spring Seed, gave a fresh impulse to the market, a material decline in freights favoring the reaction, and the decline above noted was speedily recovered, with some speculative inquiry for Choice Amber Winter; but the business has been mainly confined to shippers, who have purchased Spring chiefly; we have had a better milling demand, and but for the extreme prices insisted upon the business would have been far more active; we find our stock of good Spring is greatly reduced, this especially true of No. 2 Milwaukee; our assortment of Winter Wheat is very poor and the supply unusually light; our Western letters almost invariably allude to the light deliveries of farmers, and the injury to the Wheat plant since the 16th inst. we cannot doubt has been serious, and as this becomes more generally known we think farmers as a rule will be still more reluctant to part with their present supplies; hence it seems evident to us that our exports in May are likely to fall below our former estimates; ere any considerable supplies can reach us via the Erie Canal all our present supplies will have been marketed and we shall commence the season with empty warehouses along this coast. Since the first of January our millers have ground double the quantity of Wheat than for the corresponding time since 1837, one mill alone having used some 400,000 bush. We think much of the Winter Wheat at the West and South, which now appears dead, will revive with warm rains, and we think farmers are unwise in plowing it up, as in many previous seasons when the crop has appeared dead in the early part of April, a good crop has been obtained in a majority of seasons for the past 35 years. Our advices from Europe we regard as favorable. Prices in Great Britain, notwithstanding their large importations from this country of more than 840,000 bushels of wheat for the week ending with 20th of April, were well sustained, showing a more general reduction in their stock than most merchants here had estimated. Then, imports from Russian ports have been limited, and the quantity afloat thence was unusually light; most of the ports in the Baltic and Black Seas were closed with ice up to the 10th of April, and the supplies now passing the Dardanelles are light, and these have been purchased for Italian and French markets mainly. It seems now very certain that the wants of England must be largely supplied from this country, hence more than usual interest is manifested by the merchants in obtaining the most reliable information in regard to our growing crops, and as to the probable supplies in the hands of our farmers. An early harvest seems now very improbable. Our exports this week have not equaled our expectations and are less than last season; they are 393,248 bush., against 105,297 bushels the corresponding week last year. We notice more doing since our last for the Continent, some 20,000 quarters having been purchased and shipped since our last. Since writing the above we have later advices from sundry Winter Wheat sections, and we are sorry to find they agree in representing the Winter Wheat as seriously injured, and we are forced to come to the conclusion that the damage is greater than we had supposed. To-day the Wheat market opened steady.

We have a comparatively quiet and not very satisfactory Flour market since our last issue. Holders of medium and high grades of Family Extras have gained much firmness, and have, as a rule, declined to sell freely, unless at extreme prices, regarding the situation as a strong one, in view of the very limited prospects, supplies (especially so from the North-West) and the very light deliveries from farmers generally. The injury to the Winter Wheat crop is undoubted, but the extent of the damage cannot be arrived at immediately with any degree of accuracy; but from a large number of letters to hand this week, giving careful reports from almost all sections of the United States, we are able to form a more correct opinion than previously. Much of the Wheat which now appears killed will doubtless prove to be but slightly injured after they have had their usual warm April rains. We find our stock good, and Choice Family brands from the South-West are quite limited, and with Wheat at St. Louis quite as high as here, we cannot look for any considerable supplies thence until after harvest; meanwhile Choice Family brands of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana are likely to attract more attention. A fair business has been done in shipping grades, but at variable figures; of these we have had more liberal supplies, though our stock of Flour, valued at $5,15@5,50 per barrel is moderate for this season, and, as contrasted with Wheat it is relatively lower; in No. 2 and Superfine a fair business has been done, but at easier prices. Minnesota brands have been in fair demand, and with moderate arrivals of most grades prices generally have been fairly sustained. New Patent Process has been in steady request, and on some grades a slight advance has been established. The arrivals of low grades of Winter Wheat brands have been liberal, and we find the stock of Amber Wheat Extras valued at $5,50@5,90 is in excess of the demand, but holders generally have not pressed them on the market, feeling confident of a better demand at an early day. In City Ground a good business has been done for the West Indies and South America at about former prices. Jobbers generally are well supplied, and have purchased only to keep good their assortments. The exports of the week are 231,067 bbls, against 47,857 bbls the corresponding week last year.—Tribune.

New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—Corn firm at 84@88c. Pork dull, offering at $22,75. Others unchanged but dull. The Price Current says all provisions are at a stand-still, and it is given as a solution of the matter by some of our merchants that buyers are holding off owing to high prices, which have been forced up in the interest of Chicago speculators, and that consumers in the country are doing with less or cheaper food; hence few and small orders for plantation hands.

Nashville.

NASHVILLE, April 27.—Cotton quiet at 13¾@14¾c. Flour quiet at $5@6,50. Wheat steady at $1,23. Corn steady at 90c. Oats steady at 80c. Provisions steady. Lard 16@16¼c. Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Wheat firm and unchanged. Corn and Oats steady and unchanged. Receipts: wheat 350 bushels; corn 1,400; oats 650. Petroleum unsettled; standard white in car lots 11¼c; Ohio State test 12¼c; small lots 1@2c higher.

Detroit.

DETROIT, April 27.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Wheat firm; extra $1,28⅜; No 1 $1,27¾; amber $1.28⅛. Corn firm; No 1 mixed 75c. Oats quiet; No 1 64@65c.

Oswego.

OSWEGO, April 27.—Wheat steady and unchanged. Corn dull at 87c. Barley higher; Canada $1,45 offered, but refused.

Live Stock.

BUFFALO, April 27.—Cattle: receipts 2,217 head; total for the week 7,225; market dull and slow, with owners asking last week's prices and buyers demand a decline. Sheep and lambs: receipts 800 head; total for the week 7,400; market flat; ¼c off for wool and ¼c off for clipped. Hogs: receipts 1,060 head; total for the week 5,500; market dull; Yorkers $7,50@7,65; heavy $8,50@8,60.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Cattle: receipts 4,000 head; under unfavorable advices prices declined 10@15c, and the market became less active; closing dull; shipping steers sold generally at $4@6 60; best quoted at $7; butchers and stockers $4@5,75; sales of choice at $5,90@6,35; shipments 3,600 head. Hogs: receipts 10,000 head; market fairly active, steady and firm; prices unchanged; shipments 5,000 head. Sheep: receipts 800 head; quiet and steady; wooled $5,50@6,75; shorn $3,50@5,50.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—Hogs quiet and steady at $7@8,30.

Wool.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Wool quiet; demand moderate; prices steady; supply light; Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia XX and above 55c; X 55c; medium 56@57½c; coarse 50@52½c; New York, Michigan, Indiana and Western fine 44@50c; medium 55@56c; coarse 50@52½c; combing washed 65@67c; combing unwashed 45@56c; fine unwashed 35@37c; coarse and medium unwashed 38@42c; tub washed 55@60c; extra and merino pulled 45@50c; No 1 and super pulled 45@50c.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Business was light with commission houses, and the jobbing trade lacked animation. Cotton goods are fairly steady in price, but quiet. Shirting and fancy prints are in demand for small lots, and plaids are active. Ginghams are in very light supply. Woolens are sluggish. The Daily Bulletin says bids for supplying dry goods to the Indian Bureau were opened to-day by the Commissioners.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Cotton quiet at 16¼@16⅜c; futures closed steady; sales of 36,750 bales; April 16 1-32@16 1-16c; May 16 1-16@16 5-32c; June 16 5-16c; July 16 17-32c; August 16 11-16c; September 16 17-32@16 9-16c; October 16 5-32@16 3-16c; November 15 15-16@15 31-32c; December 15 31-32@16c.

ARRIVALS.

Mallie Ragon, Williamson, Wheeling.
Elizabeth, Irwin, Elizabeth.

DEPARTURES.

R. W. Skillinger, Russell, Ironton.
Carrie Brooks, Darlington, Zanesville.
Elizabeth, Irwin, Elizabeth.

BOATS ADVERTISED TO LEAVE TO-DAY.

Mallie Ragon, Williamson, Wheeling, 1 P. M.
Wild Duck, Adams, St. Louis, 4 P. M.

THE stage of water last evening was 5½ feet and falling very slowly. Weather cloudy and warm, with indications favorable for rain.

MR. JAS. REES and family arrived from New Orleans yesterday.

THE Oakland, with a barge in tow, made the run from Cairo to Louisville in 41 hours.

THE Mallie Ragon, Captain Williamson, is the regular packet for Wheeling and Parkersburg today, leaving promptly as advertised, at 1 P. M.

THE Tom Jasper left St. Louis for Pittsburgh Saturday evening, loaded flat with ore and miscellaneous shipments.

THE Nail City arrived at St. Louis Saturday, and the John Means left there the same day for Ironton, with 2,100 tons of ore.

OUR dispatches of Monday reported rain at Louisville and Nashville, and we will no doubt have some here within the next day or two.

AT a stockholders meeting of the K. N. line on the 17th, it was determined to reduce the stock of the company to $375,000—50 per cent.

BUSINESS at the landing appears to be improving somewhat; it is probable that iron and nails will commence to move pretty freely next week.

CAPT. THOS. CALHOON, of the St. Louis and New Orleans steamer Glencoe, who is making a visit to his friends in Georgetown, was in the city yesterday.

THE A. J. Baker at last accounts was lying at Steubenville putting off ore. She is due here to-day and will probably load for St. Louis. Capt. Thos. Poe is still in command.

THE Kittie Higler, and Mollie Ebert left Cincinnati for this port on Monday. The former boat will no doubt resume her place in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati trade again.

WE understand that a new steamer will be built for the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade to take the place of the Chas. Bodmann, and that she will be ready for business by autumn.

THE Wild Duck, Capt. Adams, is announced to take her departure for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi to-day, and shippers should bear this in mind. She will receipt through to Nashville.

J. J. COMEAUX committed suicide at New Orleans on Wednesday. He was about fifty years of age, and was, during many years, a river steamboatman, but lately he has acted as agent and commission merchant.

THE R. W. Skillinger departed for Ironton last evening with an excellent freight list and quite a number of passengers. People have discovered that the Skillinger is always close to time, hence she is building up a very snug business.

THE Belle St. Louis Transportation Company has been chartered by the State of Missouri—capital stock, $60,000. The only property of the company, so far, is the new steamer Belle St. Louis, now making her first trip on the Missouri.

COM. SANFORD B. COULSON arrived from New York yesterday, and will leave to-day for Yankton, Dacotah. He was called to New York on business connected with the Indian transportation contract, which was to have been awarded yesterday.

THE Carrie V. Kountz coming up put off at Vicksburg 130 packages, also a lot of tombs, marble &c, for the National Cemetery, which the Herald says has become quite an ornament to the city, presenting with its new wall and late improvements a picturesque sight.

CAPT. J. T. STOCKDALE in addition to his steamboat interests, is running the Eagle Oil Refinery, is connected with the Pleasant Valley Railway, and, until quite recently, was President of the Pittsburgh Savings Bank. He has also other minor interests, and it is evident, therefore, that he has his hands full.

BISMARCK, D. T., April 21.—Pleasant Point, on the east bank of the Missouri, opposite Fort Lincoln, is no more. Cause, by the flood; all the buildings were washed away; no lives lost. First crossing of the Missouri to-day. The flood is subsiding, with no ice running. The Fontenelle departs Tuesday night for Benton. Steamers from below daily expected.

THERE is every indication that the nine or ten steamers on Red River of the North will have all the business they can attend to this season, and contracts for immense supplies to be shipped northward have already been made. Recent arrivals from Bismarck furnish the information that the rivalry in the steamboat business on the Upper Missouri will surpass anything ever known on that stream. The Northern Pacific Railroad Company it is reported, will endeavor to divide its Montana and Western trade between the two competing lines, while a third line is contemplated, the boats of which will soon be in the field.

THE Louisville Courier goes for Louisville in the following style:—There isn't enough river freight here to lead a good sized boat for anywhere. Louisville seems to be completely exhausted in a business point of view. Instead of business men working together, they put in their time watching each other, doing nothing. Boats and railroads "cut each other's throats," and everybody wants to get rich doing nothing, or run for office. It ain't like it used to be—not much.... The following is from the same paper:—The Mary Houston brought up a tremendous lot of Pittsburgh made plows from the South yesterday. They seem to be poor sale down South now.

IN the New Orleans case of the Richmond vs. the Sabine, the court held that the loss of the latter boat, on the 11th of February, 1873, was occasioned through her own carelessness by neglecting to run under the rules governing pilots, in not keeping the thread or middle of the river in coming around Twelve-mile Point, but ran close on the left bank and encountered the Richmond, which was in her proper place. The plea was consequently dismissed. A counter suit for $37,500 damages was then entered against the owners of the Sabine by those of the Richmond. The court granted damages to the amount of injury sustained, which has to be ascertained by the reporter master. The Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company and others then entered suit against both steamers, claiming that such was in fault. The court then held that under such circumstances the main feature was as to which was in the wrong, and, as has been decided, it was the fault of the Sabine. Hence judgment was rendered against the New Orleans Insurance Association and the Home Mutual Insurance Company, but in favor of the Union Insurance Company.

HOME NEWS.

Discharged and Recaptured.

On Monday evening a young woman named Jane Palmer, a domestic in the family of Mr. V. Matthews, became intoxicated and acted so badly that she had to be removed to the lock-up. During the night she tore her apron into strings and attempted to hang herself, but was prevented from doing so by Captain Wilson. At the hearing yesterday morning Mayor Phillips discharged her. A few hours afterwards an officer arrested her on the street very much intoxicated, and removed her to the lock-up again. She will probably be sent to the Work House this morning.

Fire in Allegheny.

This morning at two o'clock an alarm of fire was struck from box 46, corner of Cedar and Ohio streets, Allegheny, which was caused by a shed over a bake oven being on fire on the corner of West alley and Avery street. The burning wood made a large blaze, and the light looked as though quite a conflagration was taking place. The engines were on hand promptly and extinguished the flames. The building belonged to Mr. William Haslage, and the damage done was inconsiderable. It is supposed that the shed caught fire from a lot of coals in some ashes which were emptied near it during the afternoon.

Good Reading Matter.

Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., the well known publishers of New York, make announcement elsewhere of a number of books which ought to be in the library of every man who wishes to keep abreast of the scientific thought of the age. The books are of that class which stir up thought, and which broaden the intellect, while at the same time they are very entertaining.

In addition to the scientific works, Messrs. Appleton & Co. also announce a new volume of Chapman and Hall's celebrated edition of Dickens works.

Any of these works will be sent free by mail to any address upon receipt of the price.

Temperance Alliance.

The regular meeting of the Allegheny County Temperance Alliance, was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. President Rabe in the Chair.

Several addresses were made, and reports of the progress of the work in the county received. Mrs. Hill and Miss Starr reported crusading on Monday, when five saloons were visited. A committee consisting of Mrs. Starr, Foster, Tutell, Snively, Vanhorn, Gormly, and Sterritt were appointed to collect funds and provisions for the coming National Temperance Convention of Ministers, to be held in this city on the 12th of May next.

Friday the day of prayer for the cause of Temperance will be observed at the Alliance rooms at 10 o'clock A. M., and at the Second U. P. church, Sixth avenue, from 12 to 4, and at the Bingham street M. E. church, South Side, at 7½ P. M.

The Prohibition meeting was held last evening at 7½ P. M. The principal work of the meeting was the strengthening of the Ward Committees. The regular Prohibition meetings will be held every Tuesday evening at the Alliance rooms. The question for discussion for next Tuesday evening is "Public Opinion—its relation to the Temperance Reform."

Death of an Old Lady.

On Sunday evening one of the oldest residents of Scott township, Mrs. Achsah Snodgrass, died at her residence, after a comparatively brief illness. The deceased was in the eighty-fourth year of her age at the time of her death, and was known throughout the entire neighborhood. She had resided there on her farm for many years, living all alone, as her husband died some time ago. She always enjoyed good health up to within a short time of her death, and her demise was more the result of old age than of disease. Her mental powers were unimpaired until the last, and she was enabled to transact the business connected with her farm without trouble. A few months before her death she bequeathed a forty acre farm to a favorite nephew, Mr. J. Hervey Milholland,—the bequest being valued at between $40,000 and $50,000, as it is underlaid with coal. Just subsequent to her death she also made her will giving to each of several relatives $500 cash, and leaving the remainder of her money, between $4,000 and $5,000, to a favorite niece. She was somewhat of a recluse in her habits of life, making few friends but holding to those to whom she did recognize as such, with earnestness. [illegible] took place yesterday, the deceased being buried in the rural cemetery in the presence of a large concourse who had known her in life, and thus paid the last tribute of respect to her memory.

The Sunday School Work.

The second session of the Pittsburgh Sunday School Teachers' Normal class was held last evening in the lecture room of the Smithfield street M. E. church. The attendance was larger than at the previous session, and the meeting was spirited and profitable. The exercises were under the direction of the Rev. Dr. I. C. Pershing, and the topic discussed, was "the organization and management of the Sunday school." After the reading of a number of Scripture selections bearing on the topic, a general discussion was entered into upon the following points:

1. "What officers and committees should be recognized in the plan of a well organized Sunday school." 2. "What duties does the Sunday school owe to the church with which it is connected." 3. "What points should a good Sunday school constitution contain. 4, How should a Sunday school be classified. 5, The best place and time, and length of time for a Sunday school session. 6, What should a complete course of study for a Sunday school comprise. These questions were discussed by the Conductor and Messrs. Bakewell, Morehead, Hamilton, Omohundro, Jackson, Mathews, Brickell, Rev. Mr. Wolff and the Misses Evans, DeKnight and others. The suggestions made on these points were always interesting and generally quite practical. In addition to those questions, some of the faults of superintendent and of teachers were pointed out, and some of the difficulties of harmonizing all the exercises in the school were stated, and the exercises were wound up with a review of Dr. Wise's tract on "Sunday School Organization."

The next meeting of the class will be held on the second Tuesday in May, Mr. S. Hamilton being the conductor.

THE LEETONIA MURDER.

Samuel Mead Arrested—The Citizens Inclined to Lynch Him.

Samuel Mead, who made the murderous assault on Elisha Davidson, at Leetonia, on Saturday night last, was arrested on Monday, at East Liverpool, Ohio. The train having gone, his captors were instructed to take him overland to Leetonia at once so that his victim could recognize him before death came. When the citizens of Leetonia learned that the ruffian had been arrested the utmost excitement prevailed and nearly five hundred men were awaiting his arrival on Monday night, threatening to take the law in their own hands and visit swift retribution upon his head. Twenty-five extra police were sworn in for the purpose of protecting the prisoner's life. It was finally deemed best to keep Mead outside the limits of the town until after the excited populace dispersed, which was done and he was not taken in until one o'clock in the morning, when he was placed in the lock-up and a strong guard set over it. The prisoner arrived too late for identification, Mr. Davidson having lost his senses. He was sinking rapidly yesterday, and at this writing is probably dead. The prisoner will have a hearing as soon as possible.

A DEBASED WRETCH.

Arrest of a Colored Sexton for a Horrible Crime.

Jacob C. Brown, colored sexton of the Fourth avenue Baptist church, is charged before Mayor McCarthy with having outraged the persons of two little girls, Charlotte O'Brien and Mary Jones, aged respectively twelve and fifteen years, and daughters of Bartley O'Brien and Reese Jones, both of whom reside on Laurel avenue, in the Sixteenth ward, and are in very poor circumstances. It is alleged that both offenses were committed on the 1st inst., at the church where the defendant is employed. The girls had been at the office of the Guardians of the Poor soliciting help, and were told that they might get assistance by helping Brown clean the Baptist church. They made application to him and while they were in the church it is said the crime was committed. The parents of the children did not learn of the matter until yesterday morning, when Mary Jones confessed it to her mother. She is now quite sick and unable to leave her bed. An information was at once made before the Mayor charging Brown with the crime and in the afternoon he was arrested by Detective Joe Cupples and committed to the Central Police station for a hearing at nine o'clock this morning. Charlotte O'Brien has identified Brown as the man. She picked him from a dozen colored men in the station house.

COUNTY POLITICS.

Meeting of the County Republican Executive Committee—Early Conventions Decided Upon—The Conventions to be Held in June—The Delegates to the State Convention—Election by the Committee.

Yesterday afternoon, pursuant to call, a meeting of the County Republican Executive Committee was held in the Lincoln Club rooms. The interest taken in the meeting was apparent from the fact that for fully half an hour before the meeting was organized, the members, and politicians generally, assembled in large numbers in the hall and on the pavement in front, where brisk canvassing was kept up until half past two o'clock. At that hour—the hall being filled—the meeting was organized, with the Chairman, Mr S. P. Fulton, presiding.

The roll was then called, showing that there were one hundred and sixteen members in attendance.

The Chair explained that the object of the meeting was the consideration of questions involved in the coming campaign. The first question was in reference to delegates to the State Convention. Other matters, however, could be called up at the option of the members.

Mr. Chris. Magee moved that the committee proceed to fix a time for holding the County Convention. It was carried unanimously.

Mr. Joseph M. Gazzam moved to fix upon June 15th, 1875.

Mr. James D. Walker moved to amend by fixing upon September 15th.

Mr. Magee moved to amend the original motion, to hold the primaries on the 12th of June and Convention on the 15th.

Hon. H. S. Fleming thought that prudence would dictate that the time of the Convention should be put off as long as possible. He thought a compromise between the two dates would be the best.

Messrs. Gazzam and Walker then proposed to withdraw their motions, and the 9th of August was named, but the withdrawals were not allowed.

Mr. Magee said the real question was whether it was better to have an early or late Convention, and it was not necessary to delay the decision by dilitary motions. His object in urging an early Convention was that under the new Constitution voters had to be registered two months before the election, and to get them registered organization was necessary, and no organization could be effected until a ticket was put into the field.

Mr. Myler said that if they consulted the wishes of the people they certainly would decide in favor of a late Convention. The people so far as he could ascertain were largely in favor of a late Convention. The trouble last year was that by an early Convention there were candidates forced upon the party which the party repudiated. [Applause.] If the party this fall went before the people with a good ticket, there would be no trouble to put it through, but if there was any attempt to force upon the party unworthy men, the ticket would be again defeated. He thought a late Convention would bring out the best material, and the ticket would go through.

Mr. Littell objected to the insinuation that if an early convention was held, there would be any "shenanigan," and that candidates would be forced upon the party. He thought if the workers did their duty in supporting the ticket when it was nominated, then there would be no difficulty in putting it through.

Several members cited the early conventions of last year, as one of the main reasons for the defeat of the year.

Mr. Magee contended there were a hundred reasons for the defeat of last fall, and they would have been defeated, no matter how late the conventions had been held. Early conventions in other years had proven successful, and the only point to be observed was to choose good men. The candidates were all out now, and the people could make up their minds.

Mr. Gilfillan suggested that if the candidates could not keep until September, it would be well enough to let them "spoil."

Other members urged the propriety of early conventions, for the purpose of getting the party thoroughly organized in time.

After some further discussion the roll was called on the motion of Mr. Gazzam as amended to have the primaries June 12, and the conventions June 15, which was decided in the affirmative by a vote of 105 ayes to 28 nays.

Mr. Fetterman offered the following:

Resolved, That the primary election for delegates to the County Convention, be held on Saturday, June 12, 1875, between the hours of [illegible] and 7 P. M. The Conventions to be held on Tuesday, June 15, 1875, at places to be designated by the officers of the committee.

That there shall be four conventions held to consist of one delegate from each election district, as follows:

Convention No. 1—To nominate a candidate for Sheriff.

Convention No. 2—To nominate candidates for Recorder and Register.

Convention No. 3—To nominate candidates for Clerk of Courts and Director of the Poor.

Convention No. 4—To nominate one candidate for County Controller, and two candidates for County Commissioners.

M. McGee offered an amendment, as follows:

WHEREAS, The city of Pittsburgh has been divided into election districts containing 250 votes each under the provisions of the Constitution of 1873-4, and

WHEREAS, It is important that representation in County Convention should be uniform, and that each election district should have a representation in County Conventions, therefore,

Resolved, That each election district in the county be represented by a delegate in each County Convention called or to be called by the Republican Executive Committee of the county, and that any district having an excess above 250 votes shall have an additional representative for every 250 votes above the first 250. Provided always that any district having an excess of three-fifths of 250 over and above the number to entitle them to one or more delegates shall have an additional delegate for such excess. Provided further, that the basis upon which districts are to be represented shall be the vote cast in the several districts at the last preceding State election, and that the calculation shall be made on the vote cast for the highest State officer voted for at such election.

Mr. Magee said that the amendment was for the purpose of giving a fair and equal representation all over the county. In Pittsburgh, no district, under the law, is to have more than two hundred and fifty votes, and the resolution will give other portions of the county equal representation.

Mr. Coursin said it would simply give the city of Pittsburgh the control of the Convention.

Mr. Magee contended it would not, but that it would equalize the representation.

Mr. Coursin thought the equalization was all in favor of Pittsburgh.

Several members wanted to know how the estimate was to be made.

Mr. Magee explained that the County Committee would take the vote cast last fall for Lieu'enant Governor, and make the representation, and announce it in their call.

It was suggested that it might be well to let the County Committee just do the whole business of nominating.

The amendment was put to a vote and carried, and Mr. Fetterman's resolution, as amended, was then carried, Mr. Coursin, of McKeesport, some members from Allegheny, and others protesting against it.

Mr. Case moved the appointment of a committee to make arrangements for places in which to hold conventions and to issue the call. Carried.

And Messrs. F.P. Case, C. L. Magee, Thos. H. Hunter, J. A. Myler, Joseph M. Gazzam appointed.

Mr. Phelps moved that the committee proceed to elect delegates to the State Convention.

Mr. F. C. Negley moved as an amendment that the matter be left with the people; that primaries be held on the second Saturday of May for the election of delegates to the County Conventions, and that these delegates select representatives to the State Convention.

Mr. Magee contended that there was a better representation of the working part of the Republican party in the committee than could be had in the primaries. There was nothing to stir the people up to come to the primaries, and hence they would practically go by default.

Mr. Negley said if the people didn't come out it would be their own fault, and the committee would then be relieved of all blame.

Mr. Paul J. Carson thought the people ought to have a hand in this matter. If the Committee made the appointments it would look like a set-up job. It was very desirable to allay all bad feeling in the party, and to consolidate interests which, in the last election, had been inimical to the success of the party. He thought no way would be so successful as letting the people have a voice directly in all matters in which they were concerned.

After some further discussion, a vote was taken by yeas and nays on the amendment. The result was 40 ayes, 73 nays. So the amendment was defeated.

The motion of Mr. Phelps was then carried, and it was further decided to make the nominations by districts.

Mr. H. S. Fleming "Oh gentlemen! Don't assume a virtue when you hav'nt got it. Put the thing through according to the plan."

Mr. Magee—"The committee has decided Sheriff."

The name of Mr. Arthur Hobson was suggested for the first district. (Senatorial.)

The names of Messrs. Hugh McNeill and W. W. Tyson were also suggested.

A motion was made to elect Mr. Hobson by acclamation.

Mr. Henry Warner—"Oh, yes; gentlemen, just put the printed slip through as you have got it arranged."

The following ticket was then taken up and nominated, the nominations being considered as unanimous, although there were occasional "noes:"

SENATORIAL.—Forty-second District, Arthur Hobson; Forty-third District, S. P. Fulton; Forty-fourth District, C. B. Seeley; Forty-fifth District, M. S. Humphreys.

LEGISLATURE.—First District, Watson Woolsey, W. W. Tyson, H. H. Byram Second District J. M. Gazzam, Jno. N. Neeb; Third District, Thos. Rosewell; Fourth District, Jas. A. McDevitt, R. B. Brown, C. S. Fetterman, David Harris; Fifth District, B. B. Coursin, J. J. Gillespie; Sixth District, Jno. Paul, Chris. Steel.

The Convention having been in session an hour and a half then adjourned.

The watch bears the inscription, "Presented to P. Patterson by his employes, Baltimore, Md., August 6, 1871." The prisoners are held in custody until information can be obtained from Baltimore as to whether such a watch is missing there.

····Officer J. B. Wright, while patrolling "Skunk Hollow" in the Sixteenth ward, near Bloomfield, captured a horse and wagon containing about one thousand pounds of links and pins stamped P. R. R., B. & O. R. R., C. & P. R. R., Oil Creek & A. R. R. W.; three bags of small uncut bolts and samples of steel rails, with labels partly scratched off. The driver of the team, as soon as he noticed the approach of the officer, jumped from the wagon and ran away, which led the patrolman to believe that he might find contraband goods in the vehicle. The iron was placed in the Seventeenth ward station to await identification and the horse and wagon taken to Young's livery stable, where the owner can recover the same. The horse is a very fine one.

····The Board of School Directors of the Fourth ward, Allegheny, met last evening for the purpose of electing a teacher to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Hamilton, of the High School Department of House No. 1, who is about to leave on a trip for Europe. After giving the matter full consideration the Board [illegible] such promotions of the old teachers as it deemed best for the interests of the school, and a vacancy being left in room No. 1 of the Primary Department, Miss Zilla A. Bunn was elected to fill it. The scholars of Miss Hamilton's room, as a token of their esteem and respect for her as a teacher and friend, yesterday presented her with an elegant traveling satchel. She leaves with the best wishes of many friends for a happy and prosperous voyage and safe return.

PERSONAL.

The funeral of the late Dr. Preston will take place at two o'clock this afternoon from St. Andrew's church.

Postmaster Myler, of Allegheny, lectured on Monday evening before Robertson Lodge No. 450, I. O. O. F., at New Brighton.

Hon. Moses Hampton was in Judge Stowe's branch of the Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday morning, where he remained most of the forenoon.

Judge A. McDermitt, of Mercer county, was in attendance at the Clark-McCully trial yesterday, and occupied a seat on the bench with Judge Stowe.

Mechanical Engineer Lowry thinks the offer of John L. L. Knox to finish the water works so cheaply is more buncombe than earnest, and made partially for the purpose of injuring his engines in the public estimation.

Rev. James Black, D. D., President of the Pennsylvania Female College, has resigned that position and accepted the professorship of Greek in the University at Wooster, which was left vacant by the resignation of Professor Jeffers.

The many friends of Rev. Dr. Sproull, of Allegheny, who has been lying sick of pneumonia, at the residence of his son, Rev. T. A. Sproull, New Alexandria, Pa., will be glad to learn that he is now convalescent and expected to return home in a few days.

Henry Stewart, Esq., an old resident of the city and formerly of the firm of Hays & Stewart, tanners and leather dealers, Liberty street, is lying very ill at his residence in New Alexandria, to which place he moved on his retirement from business, about four years ago.

Mr. Robert Fedder, brother-in-law of Street Commissioner Hunter, who left here about two weeks ago for Port Collins, Colorado, has arrived safe. He reports the climate very pleasant, and his health greatly improved. He will devote his time while in Port Collins to the business of cattle raising in connection with Mr. Wilson, a former Pittsburgher.

Rev. C. A. Holmes, of Grace M. E. church, Harrisburg, formerly of this city, who has been suffering for the past six weeks with rheumatism, will take a trip southward, as soon as his physician will permit him to undertake the trip. His congregation has granted him leave of absence. His many friends here will be glad to hear of his convalescence, and join in the hope for his speedy restoration to his wonted vigor.

DEATH OF REV. WM. PRESTON, D. D.

Action of the Vestry of St. James' Church, Pittsburgh.

WHEREAS, The Rev. Wm. Preston, D. D., has by many kind offices throughout the entire life of this parish, been our constant friend, and during the late vacancy in the rectorship, ministered in our Church for many months at much sacrifice to himself, during which time he greatly endeared himself to all the congregation; and

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove him from the scenes of his earthly labors to his abiding reward, therefore

Resolved, That in humble resignation to the Divine will, and thankful for the example of his life, so faultless and so devoted to the service of the Master, we deeply deplore his loss, and desire to record this testimony to his exalted character, and our heartfelt condolence with the bereaved family of our deceased friend and father in Christ.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to furnish a copy of the above to the leading Church and secular papers for publication, and a copy to the family of the departed.

Signed, J. DUDLEY FERGUSON, Rector.
JOHN HANCOCK, Senior Warden.
FRANCIS ARMSTRONG, Junior Warden.

WM. J. HAMMOND.

YALE ALUMNI MEETING.

A meeting of the Yale Alumni Association was held yesterday morning in the Young Mens' Christian Association rooms, with the President, Rev. F. A. Noble, in the chair, to take action upon the death of the Rev. Wm. Preston, D. D. The following resolutions were reported by the committee appointed for that purpose, and adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That in the death of the Rev. Wm. Preston, D. D., of the class of 1826, this Association has lost a venerated member, a genial friend and a truly good man, whose noble heart drew us towards him and whose sterling worth and consistent life ever influenced us for good.

Resolved, That we desire to record our sense of admiration of the entire and unselfish consecration of his long life in toil for others—his unswerving opposition to all that is false and wrong in church and in society, and his simple piety and Catholic spirit of toleration which commanded the veneration and love of all creeds and classes.

Resolved, That this Association will attend his funeral in a body.

THE FUNERAL.

From 10 o'clock A. M. until 12 M. to-day the remains of Dr. Preston will lie in state in St. Andrew's Church, on Ninth street, for the purpose of affording the friends of the deceased an opportunity to view them for the last time. The doors will be closed promptly at twelve o'clock, so that the arrangements for the funeral, which takes place at two o'clock, can be completed. The body will be interred in Uniondale Cemetery, Allegheny.

(Before Judge Ewing.)

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Robt. Lindsay, indicted for false pretenses on oath Charles J. Barr, a nolle prosequi was allowed on payment of costs by defendant.

A nolle prosequi was also allowed in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Christ Wagner and J. P. Wilson, indicted on oath of Bernhard Klingman for false pretenses.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. David Croft, indicted for barratry on oath of Charles J. Nahmmacher, occupied near the entire day in this Court. The defendant, it was charged, made informations against different liquor dealers for the purpose of extorting money from them. In connection with the case and at the same time the information was made against Croft, a charge of conspiracy was preferred against S. D. Rothermel. The latter testified that he acted as counsel for Croft and had settled the cases because he did not suppose that the prosecution had made out a sufficient case. Both he and Croft denied that they had divided the money collected from the liquor dealers, but that it was applied in payment of the fees of Rothermel. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Alexander Cobb was acquitted of a charge of the larceny of a pair of pants. Henry Jackson was the prosecutor.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. S. D. Rothermel, charged with conspiracy in connection with the liquor prosecutions alluded to in the case of Croft, a nolle pros. was allowed.

Thomas Lane is on trial on a charge of larceny from the person.

"GARDEN TRUCK."

A Skirmish Through the Diamond Market Yesterday Afternoon.

One of our reporters skirmished around the Diamond Market for over an hour yesterday afternoon, earnestly intent on ascertaining the conditions of the retail trade in garden stuff and the prices therefore, but about the first discovery made was that vegetables and plants were very scarce and held at very high figures. Every reader will at once recognize that this is very unusual at this season of the year. If the spring is anyways up to time the 15th of April generally brings with it all the products of the garden that are needed to supply the wants of those who are able to pay elevated prices. This year, however, it is different, and hucksters stand behind their stalls with folded arms, their offerings almost begging for purchasers.

It is generally customary to quote potatoes by the bushel, and as our representative is not a family man, and hence could not be supposed to understand the mysteries of marketing, he was somewhat surprised, in response to his question, "What are new potatoes worth to-day," to hear "fifty cents a quarter peck." Thinking the fellow was joking, the newspaper youth struck his most nonchalent attitude and said, "Come, now, boss, what are potatoes worth? You have some very nice ones here."

"I tell you they are fifty cents a quarter peck, and you can't get 'em for a penny less at any stand in this market."

That settled it, and boarders will now understand why the delicious farinaceous tuber, for which Europe is indebted to the discovery of America, has not yet tickled their palates. A half peck, or two half pecks of new potatoes wouldn't be a smell for a lot of voracious boarders, hungering and yearning for but seldom getting the products of the early spring. It is not so many years since the tomato, or love apple, was considered poisonous, and among the lowly it was used as a house ornament long before its virtue as an article of food was recognized, and its delicacy and fine flavor appreciated. It is now among the first to put in an appearance in market after cold weather has gone, and knowing its value it commands a high price, until the increasing warmth of the sun ripens them by thousands, causing its market value to decrease in proportion.

"If your potatoes are worth fifty cents a quarter peck, how much do you ask for your tomatoes?"

"Fifty cents a box, sir. Nice, ripe and fresh. Have a box?"

"Not any, thank you!" And such boxes; not one of them would hold over a quart of strawberries, for which they were originally intended. Each box held about six tomatoes, four little ones underneath and two big ones on top. Sliced and properly seasoned with salt, pepper and vinegar, they would satisfy the appetite of perhaps one person. Peeled and cooked, and bread crumbled in with them they might, with the aid of feminine ingenuity, make a decent display in one end of a small side dish.

"You have been kind enough to astonish me with the price of potatoes and tomatoes, perhaps you will also be courteous enough to startle me with the price of peas," said our interlocutor to the market man.

"Peas, sir. Peas are selling at thirty cents a half peck. Shall I put you up some?"

"Not any to-day, I guess."

"What the dickens are you askin' so many questions for, then, unless you want to buy something?"

That was a stunner, a truthful answer to which would have precluded the obtaining of any further information, as every reporter who has been detailed to get up a market article well knows. It is a peculiarity of hucksters generally to bitterly oppose the publication of the prices of their wares in the newspapers. For some reason they don't like it, and reporters are never given a cordial welcome. Feeling that probably enough interrogatories had been propounded to the gentleman with whom the above conversation was held the reporter pursued his inquiries in other directions. Here and there cucumbers, quite nice and fresh, were found in small quantities and only twenty cents a piece asked for them. Leeks were held at five cents a bunch, and cabbage plants at one dollar per hundred. New onions were plenty at five cents a bunch, and radishes and lettuce in limited supply at seventy-five cents per dozen each. Indeed the market was very bare of vegetables and fruits, and customers were equally as scarce. For such apples as were on hand twenty cents a half peck was demanded. Oranges and lemons abounded in the greatest profusion and but a moderate sum was asked, thirty cents per dozen for the former and thirty-five for the latter. Pine apples were plenty at from thirty-five to fifty cents each, and sweet potatoes at twenty-five cents per half peck.

YOUNG MEN'S BIBLE SOCIETY.

Synopsis of Secretary Eaton's Report.

The Young Men's Bible Society, of Allegheny county, held their annual meeting on Monday evening. We present a brief synopsis of the report of Prof. Eaton, the corresponding Secretary.

The business depression of the past year has had a marked effect upon the collections made by our worthy agent, Mr. David Clark, but the number of visits made and valuable information gathered, in regard to the use of the Holy Scriptures among all classes of our people, is quite equal to that of previous years. The christian public may not be aware that at the suggestion of Rev. Bishop Simpson, President of the Pennsylvania Bible Society, that a combined effort is being made by the Parent Society and the branches scattered throughout the State, to report at the Centennial in 1876, that the Word of Life has been offered to every person in our broad Commonwealth. In furtherance of this object our agent reports that he has made 8,852 visits. Of this number 113 families were without a Bible, 54 of these were supplied by gift, a portion of them paid for copies, and a few declined either to accept as a gift or purchase. The Society, in addition to the above, donated during the year to Mission Sabbath Schools, Hotels, Benevolent and Reformatory Institutions, 412 Bibles and 252 Testaments.

An interesting feature of the year's work has been that of supplying the various railroads entering the city with copies of the Scriptures. The officials in connection with most of the roads entered with gratifying heartiness into the project, and provided suitable racks for the books, our Society furnishing the Bibles free of cost. In this way 72 passenger cars and 68 cabooses were each supplied with two copies of the Scriptures. We are not without the most gratifying and reliable testimony that these volumes have been largely read by the traveling public and the employes of the roads.

Mr. W. W. Waters, the Librarian, No. 198 Penn avenue, reports as follows:

Total number of volumes donated through the Agent, and to Mission Schools, railroad cars, &c	1,357
Total number sold	2,792
Total number on hand	1,929

John F. Loy, Treasurer, made the following report:

Total receipts from all sources		$4,392 03
Contingent expenses	$ 62 85
Paid agent	600 00
Paid Librarian	100 00
Remitted to Penn. Bible Society	3,629 18
		$4,392 03

The Pennsylvania Bible Society in answer to the invitation of the Young Men's Bible Society will hold their anniversary in this city. The time fixed is the 20th of May next, and we are pleased to announce that Bishop Simpson, President of the Pennsylvania Bible Society, and President Allen, of the American Bible Society, have both made arrangements to be present.

A PRESENTATION.

Rev. E. K. Squiers Remembered by his Congregation.

A mite society was held at the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, on Sixth avenue, last night, which was largely attended. The friends who were present, desiring to present their late pastor, Rev. E. K. Squiers, D. D., with a fitting memorial, took occasion to do so on this occasion, and that gentleman was made the recipient of a purse containing over fifty dollars in money. The presentation speech was made by Mr. George H. Garber, which was responded to by Mr. Squiers in a few appropriate remarks. The affair was a most enjoyable one and the entertainment passed off very pleasantly.

Grand Opening Lunch.

A Self-Advertising Remedy.

There are certain proprietary articles that advertise themselves. Among these are Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It may be truly said of this celebrated remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, and antidote to malaria, that the contents of every bottle is an advertisement, since its good effects so decidedly and promptly evince themselves as invariably to elicit favorable comment from those who use it. This is particularly true in rural neighborhoods invaded by chills and fever, and other types of malaria, for which it is a recognized specific. Such disorders being epidemic, the question "What is the best remedy and safeguard?" naturally presents itself to everybody in this vicinity, and is made the subject of general inquiry. A family benefited by the Bitters communicates the fact to the neighbors, who in turn become patrons of the great remedy, and proclaim its efficacy. This explains why it has become the most popular of American household medicines, and why its popularity is continually on the increase.

VEGETINE
The Great Health Restorer, Made from
BARKS, ROOTS AND HERBS.
General Debility.

In this complaint the good effects of the VEGETINE are realized immediately after commencing to take it; as debility denotes deficiency of the blood, and VEGETINE acts directly upon the blood. There is no remedy that will restore the health from debility like the VEGETINE. It is nourishing and strengthening, purifies the blood, regulates the bowels, quiets the nervous system, acts directly upon the secretions, and arouses the whole system to action. It has never failed in this complaint.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 13, 1871.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:—

Dear Sir—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. VEGETINE was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by its use. I procured the article, and, after using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared; and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.

Respectfully yours,
U. L. PETTINGILL,
Firm of S. M. Pettingill & Co.,
No. 10 State street.

All Diseases of the Blood.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works on the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

CHARLESTOWN, Mass., March 25, 1869.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—The following is a statement of my experience with the great Blood Remedy, VEGETINE. I have been keeping a boarding house here for many years, and have had the misfortune to have a great deal of sickness in my family. In one case in particular I noticed the wonderful effect of VEGETINE.

About the year 1847 a young man, then 16 years old, who was a distant relative of mine, came home from sea. He had injured his left leg on board the ship some months before, and when the ship came into this port he came to my house, being so feeble that he could not go to his home in Lowell. His leg was swollen above the knee more than twice its natural size, and he was obliged to drag it along after him, having no use of it whatever. The effect of this had reduced him to a mere skeleton. His father came down and employed Dr. George Hayward, of Boston, to attend him, who then occupied a prominent position in the Massachusetts General Hospital. He pronounced it a bad case of Necrosis; said he must be removed to the hospital, have his leg opened and the bone bored, to allow the discharge of matter there collected; otherwise the leg must be amputated.

Not thinking it advisable to pursue this course, and having used VEGETINE, the Great Blood Remedy, in the past with so good effect, concluded to try it in this case. After taking it regularly for six weeks, his leg was but little swollen, and his general health so much improved that he did not look like the same person. At the end of five months he went home to Lowell perfectly cured. He remained in Lowell until the commencement of the war; then joined the army and was pronounced a sound and well man.

The above is but one case out of the many where I have seen this Blood Remedy used with unparalleled success. I have taken it myself for twenty years, more or less, for Dyspepsia and General Debility, and it always appeared to give me new life and vigor.

One lady boarder was completely cured from Canker Humor, after she had suffered for years, and tried almost everything else without receiving any benefit. Another lady was cured from Liver Complaint, which was a bad case, and so considered by the many physicians who had attended her from time to time.

I have known its use by other boarders for Rheumatism, with extraordinary good effect.

A lady took it for Consumption of the Bowels, and found more relief than in anything else she could procure.

I do not want to overestimate its usefulness; but I do want those suffering from sickness to know what this good medicine has done and is still doing, for I know what it is to be imposed upon when sick, and I think it is wrong for any one to overestimate a remedy at the expense of the helpless sick; and I, for one, will not do it under any circumstance whatever.
